Do Something New
Ford Tired of Waiting
No Interest, No Campaign
Uncertain, Coy, as Usual

Current Events
—By Arthur Brisbane—
Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

COLUMBUS Day being over, young gentlemen, you will notice that Columbus tried what others believed to be impossible. That's his glory. All of his success followed that.

When they praised Napoleon for crossing the Alps in Winter, he said: "That's nothing. I deserve credit only for not believing the fools who said it couldn't be done." To be somebody, do something NEW.

HENRY FORD tells "Collier's" that he withdraws his bid for Muscle Shoals. He has waited three years for the government to accept his proposition, and thinks that is long enough.

Ford, who has purchased vast coal lands in Kentucky and elsewhere, will turn the coal into electric power, taking out of it, as the German scientists do, its valuable by-products in the process of combustion.

FORD gives to a hesitating, foolish government the snubs that it deserves. Had his offer been accepted, as it SHOULD have been, he would have made good his promise "to produce enough nitrates to give this country absolute predominance in explosive power, making war improbable, and in peace providing farmers with all the nitrates for fertilizers that they could use, at very low prices.

Or, had he not succeeded, he would have spent hundreds of millions in the attempt. He should have had the opportunity.

PEOPLE are not interested in this campaign. New York's registration increases 120,257 over 1920. But that doesn't begin to represent the increase in population.

RIGHTLY or wrongly, Republicans and Democrats believe that Coolidge is absolutely sure to carry New York State. Many of the best informed also believe that Al Smith, a Democrat, will be elected Governor.

IN THE meanwhile, nobody is making a campaign.

No intelligent advertising is done. The right kind of political advertising, such as G. W. Perkins made some years ago, against the Elihu Root New York State constitution, could change hundreds of thousands of votes. The politicians haven't money to pay for advertising and wouldn't know how to write the advertisements if they had the money.

WOMAN, in her hours of ease, continues to be coy and uncertain. In Paris, she is having her shoulders rouged. In London, artists paint artificial freckles on women's faces, necks and arms.

There is meaning in all this petty puzzling feminine nonsense. Olympias, mother of Alexander, doing wild dances with snakes wrapped around her, no other clothing, and your great grandmother with her hoop skirt, trailing the ground, and smelling salts both represent progress in some mysterious way.

Woman is a being more complicated than man. Her evolution is longer, more intricate.

DEAN INGE, of St. Paul's, thinks the world may be saved, morally, by some powerful writer of plays. Not preachers or writers, but "a great dramatist may help us to find our souls," says the great and revered British student.

AMONG THE GREEKS of 2,000 years ago, the play really was the thing. Euripides and Aristophanes probably influenced Greek thought more than Socrates, Plato and Aristotle combined.

But where does Dean Inge see any great power in the modern stage? The morality plays in the Middle Ages had some of it, but what play since then could compare in influence with the writings of Bunyan, or Voltaire, the Chicago bus boy, as he looked when he cut a wide swath a year ago among the elect at Newport, where he was lavishly entertained for a few weeks until discovered. Now he is in Boston Psychopathic Hospital for observation after passing several worthless checks in this city.

HELD IN BOSTON ON CHARGE OF BAD CHECKS

Otto Hartman, Chicago bus boy who euchered Newport society some time ago and was entertained lavishly in the belief that he was a social lion, is in again.

It was revealed in Municipal Court today that "James E. Herbert," alleged University of Chicago student, "son of Lord and Lady Herbert" and friend of Leopold and Loeb, is none other than little Otto.

James, or Otto as he really is, fell into the clutches of the police two weeks ago, because of a penchant for cashing worthless checks.

At the time he said he was the son of a wealthy Chicago leather merchant, but later amended his statement and declared his parents

COOLIDGE LEAD CUT DOWN IN POLL

On the nineteenth day of the Boston American's Presidential Preference Poll followers of this effort to note the drift of public sentiment will find the figures more interesting than ever.

President Coolidge still in the lead—and a very comfortable lead—but with the others apparently drawing up on him.

No longer can it be said that the straw vote for the President is approximately equal to that of both his rivals combined.

It isn't; the vote for La Follette, plus the vote for John W. Davis, betters the Coolidge total by 1,640.

The figures are for eighteen days,

DIRIGIBLE DEFIES STORM

Due at Lakehurst Tomorrow; Sends Message 1,300 Miles Off the Atlantic Coast

Chatham, Oct. 14.—A message received at 11 o'clock from the ZR-3 by the Radio Corporation of America station here gave her position as 42:30 degrees west longitude. At that hour the airship gave her speed as 75 miles an hour.

Earlier reports had shown the dirigible making only 25 knots an hour against strong southwest winds. The speed given at 11 o'clock indicated that the weather had improved. The position of the vessel at that hour also showed that she was making rapid progress in her flight to Lakehurst, N. J. The position was approximately 1300 miles from her destination. Maintenance of the same speed would bring her to Lakehurst early tomorrow morning.

Eckener's Own Story of Historic Flight

The following radiogram was written exclusively for the International News Service by Dr. Hugo Eckener, world's foremost expert on Zeppelin airships and commander of the ZR-3:

By HUGO ECKENER
Commander of the Dirigible ZR-3.

Aboard the ZR-3 (By Wireless to I.N.S., Copyright).—West of the Azores we encountered gradually increasing southwest winds, which we were compelled to combat for 12 hours. We took a westerly direction to accomplish this, with a speed gradually decreasing to 30 miles an hour.

The wind then shifted to southwest with a rapidity of seventeen meters a second.

After having familiarized ourselves with storm conditions we took a northwesterly course at greater speed toward the guide ship Milwaukee, which we hope to pass in the morning hours.

Then we will make new plans regarding our course, after familiarizing ourselves with weather conditions around the Milwaukee.

The ship and machinery are in the best of condition.

Georgia Governor Admits Speaking at Klan Meeting

Atlanta, Oct. 14.—Governor Clifford Walker of Georgia admitted he was the "Governor of a great State," referred to in news dispatches, who addressed the imperial klonvocation of the Ku Klux Klan at Kansas City, September 23, according to a story published in the Atlanta Constitution.

GERMAN LOAN SUBSCRIBED IN 12 MINUTES

New York, Oct. 14.—Subscription books for America's $110,000,000 portion of the $200,000,000 German loan were opened at 10 a. m. and closed twelve minutes later with an indicated heavy oversubscription.

So great was the demand for the German bonds that several large investment houses were compelled to decline to take any orders.

The first sale of the new German bonds on the New York Stock Exchange was a lot of $5,000 at 94⅝, or 2⅝ above the offering price. The next sale was $50,000 worth at 94¼.

In the first fifteen minutes of trading, approximately $350,000 worth of the bonds changed hands on the New York Stock Exchange at prices ranging between 94⅝ and 92⅞, as against the offering price of 92.

An advance of so much was considered unusual by traders accustomed to seeing jumps of an eighth or a quarter on favored securities.

The bonds were offered first to small subscribers seeking amounts of $1,000 or $2,000. Subscribers for heavier sums had their allotments scaled down. The market on opening here several hours after the start of trading in London, followed the pace set there.

HYLAN AGAIN QUESTIONS COOLIDGE ON BONDS

New York, Oct. 14.—Sale of America's share of the bonds comprising the $200,000,000 German reconstruction loan began today. This country's allotment totals $110,000,000, the rest of the bonds to be marketed in Great Britain and other participating nations almost simultaneously with the offering in this country. Mayor Hylan today wrote his third letter to President Coolidge relative to the loan, again calling upon the President to inform the investing public whether or not the word of the bankers was the only assurance investors had of the ultimate collection of the moneys.

Washington, Oct. 14 (I.N.S.).—President Coolidge will make no immediate reply to Mayor John F. Hylan of New York, who, in a letter to the White House, has demanded information concerning the security back of the new German loan.

Mrs. Risteen Nearly Collapses When Arraigned at Salem: Plummer Unmoved

In Salem District Court the false friend and the faithless wife of Fred A. Risteen of Beverly were arraigned today on charges of murder in the first degree.

Mrs. Marion A. Risteen, the wife, pleaded not guilty in a voice that was barely audible. She nearly swooned as she entered her plea, but police caught her before she fell.

George W. Plummer, Jr., formerly a boarder in the Risteen household, and openly a suitor for the woman's favor, entered a similar plea, a meaningless half smile playing about his lips.

Judge George Sears ordered the case continued for one week. The pair were taken to Salem jail, to be held without bail.

The three children who are the innocent victims of this triangular tragedy of stolen love and fiery jealousy were not in court.

They are Eleanor, the thirteen-year-old daughter of Plummer, the glum widower who has admitted killing Risteen; Freddie, the nine-year-old son of the accused wife, and Marion, her baby girl.

The Plummer girl and the Risteen boy are old enough to understand that a shadow has fallen across their lives. The Risteen baby, four years old, understands nothing except that her father has gone away forever, and that her mother no longer comes to her at night.

Plummer and the woman for whom he killed were taken from the jail at Beverly to the jail at Salem today.

Mrs. Risteen was not handcuffed as she was taken to the waiting automobile. She walked with uncertain step, her head hanging, her eyes red.

Plummer was shackled and under

Used Gas to Die

FRANK B. BRANDEGEE.
United States Senator from Connecticut, who committed suicide in his Washington home.

Brandegee's Note Telling Where His Body Lay

The note left by Senator Brandegee to his chauffeur read:

"I enclose $100 for you and $100 for Emma and Rufus.

"I am up in the bathroom on the top floor near Seventeenth street. The top floor. The floor above the one I sleep on.

"If you or Lundy come up there beware of the gas.

"Goodby.

"Frank B. Brandegee."

Pinned to the note were two $100 bills. Emma and Rufus, referred to by the Senator, are Emma and Rufus Kenney, negroes, servants of Mr. Brandegee. The chauffeur is George Jones.

The two sentences in the note, "The top floor," "The floor above the one I sleep on," were written in red crayon, as though inserted or an afterthought.

FORTUNE MELTED AWAY

Connecticut Leader Is Found Dead With Gas Tube in His Hand

Washington, Oct. 14. — Senator Frank B. Brandegee of Connecticut, prominent for years among the Republican leaders of Congress, committed suicide at his home here today.

Distracted, his friends said, over financial difficulties, he went to an unused bath room on the third floor of his house and, just before dawn, took his own life by inhaling gas.

Secretary of War John W. Weeks, who is in New York, issued this statement through the Republican national committee:

I exceedingly regret to learn that Senator Frank B. Brandegee has committed suicide. I have been entirely familiar with his personal business affairs and I know that the reason for taking this rash step is due to personal financial troubles resulting from investments in real estate.

He left in his bedroom below a note to his chauffeur, telling him where the body would be found. He was a bachelor and for years had lived alone.

The note ascribed no motive. A verdict of suicide was returned by the coroner after he and the police had made a complete investigation.

Penciled in an uncertain hand on Senate stationery, the Senator's last message said:

October 13, 1924.
Dear George:
I enclose $100 for you and $100 for Emma and Rufus.
I am up in the bathroom on the top floor near 17th street. The top floor. The floor above the one I sleep on.

FIRE THREATENS TOWN OF AMOSKEAG, N. H.

Manchester, N. H., Oct 14 (I.N.S.).—A forest fire is threatening Amoskeag village, near here, today, and already has destroyed a large quantity of valuable timber. The blaze broke out shortly before noon and, fanned by a north wind, soon reached great proportions. Aid was summoned from this city to battle the flames which threaten the little town. The small army of fire-fighters is putting up a bitter fight to place the blaze under control.

COOLIDGE THINKS FORD STILL WANTS SHOALS

Washington, Oct. 14 (I.N.S.). — President Coolidge does not consider that Henry Ford is definitely out of the market for Muscle Shoals, despite the automobile magnate's interview stating that he had withdrawn his bid of $5,000,000 for the property. The President rather considers, he told inquirers at the White House today, that Mr. Ford has merely decided not to press at this time for Congressional acceptance of his offer, but to await further developments.

TONGS SEEKING MACHINE GUNS FOR U. S. FEUD

Washington, Oct. 14.—The Washington police announced today that they had averted serious developments in the Chinese section of lower Pennsylvania avenue in connection with the nationwide Tong disturbances.

They declared one of the rival Chinese factions had gone the length of negotiating for machine guns in preparation for open hostilities, but expressed a belief that the whole plot had been nipped in the bud.

Tong Feudists Murder Man in Brooklyn

New York, Oct. 14 (I.N.S.)—Another murder told Chinatown today that the feud between the On Leong and Hip Sing Tongs in half a dozen cities still is on, although a "peace conference" has been called for this afternoon.

[illegible], a Chinese, employed in a Brooklyn laundry, was shot to death by three men who arrived and escaped in a taxi-cab. They [illegible] him after a short argument.

War of the tongs has spread so rapidly through America that the Chinese Minister at Washington took official cognizance by calling on the police of the large cities to aid in preserving peace.

While diplomats were conferring with police chiefs the unofficial "mayors" of the various Chinatowns were using their persuasive abilities to end the warfare.

Chinatown still resembles an armed camp. Patrolmen are stationed every twenty-five feet, and members of the special service and bomb squads and precinct detectives patrol the streets. Passing Chinese are often searched for weapons.

As they were taken away there was a flutter of excitement in the cells of the petty offenders who have been their neighbors since they were arrested. It was caused by a rumor that Mrs. Risteen had made new revelations which would win her favored treatment, possibly a reduction of the charge against her to that of being an accessory after the fact, possibly mere detention for a time as a material witness against her admirer.

"It is not true," said District Attorney William A. Clark of Essex County. "The charge in both instances is murder in the first degree."

Bearing out in some part this positive statement was the discovery that Mrs. Risteen and not altered her confession during the night.

STICKS TO STORY.

She still insisted that Plummer killed her husband in the woods in North Beverly on Saturday night, September 20, and that he and she wired and weighted the body and cast it into Norwood's Pond early the next morning.

Plummer, it was understood, told the same story, which is not accepted by the police and will be subjected to attack when the trials start.

Their last night in Beverly jail was an uneventful one. Both were guarded carefully to prevent them from harming themselves. They gave the guards little trouble.

This morning they were aroused in time to dress hurriedly and have breakfast.

Plummer was interested in breakfast. Mrs. Risteen, too, ate heartily. They had slept soundly all night.

POLICE DOUBT STORIES.

The police of Beverly and State detectives say it will be no exploit at all to riddle the "confessions" of the two accused.

Risteen, they insist, was not killed in a fair fight in the woods; did not accompany Plummer, whom he hated, on a drinking and poker expedition on the night he was killed, and was not killed by a blow on the head, but strangled.

According to their theory, Risteen was killed in his own home, deliberately, without a chance for life, and his murder was planned months ago.

Mrs. Risteen was present in the Risteen home at No. 26 Cabot street in Beverly when her husband was killed, it is charged.

The authorities have not revealed whether they will accuse her of having a hand in the actual slaying.

Neither have they indicated where the Risteen children were while their father was being done to death, but the children are being closely guarded and will be questioned soon.

IMPORTANT POINT

One of the points on which the case against Plummer and possibly against Mrs. Risteen will turn will be the defense assertion that Risteen died by drowning.

Attorney W. H. McSweeney of Salem says that Plummer did strike down his love rival in a drunken fight in the woods; thought him dead and cast him into the pond, death actually resulting from drowning.

Medical Examiner Stickney insists the victim was struck with a blunt instrument, which may have felled, but could not have killed him, and later was strangled to death while he was helpless.

It is the question of deliberation that is involved. Physicians for the prosecution and the defense have had ample time to examine the body and to perfect their case in that regard.

SON AND DAUGHTER OF TWO BISHOPS WED

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Miss Charlotte Blake, daughter of Bishop and Mrs. Edgar Blake of the Paris area of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and Thomas S. McConnell, son of Bishop and Mrs. Francis J. McConnell of Pittsburgh, were married last Sunday evening, it was announced today.

Mr. McConnell is a graduate of Harvard and is a member of a Chicago law firm.

Goodbye.

FRANK B. BRANDEGEE.

Pinned to the note were two $100 bills. Emma and Rufus referred to by the Senator, are Emma and Rufus Kenney, servants of Mr. Brandegee. The chauffeur is George Jones.

The sentences in the note "the top floor. The floor above the one I sleep on," were written in red crayon, as though inserted or an afterthought.

RUBBER TUBE IN HAND.

The Senator was last seen alive by Jones and his secretary, yesterday morning. At that time he went for a ride with Jones about the city. Jones said he seemed then to be in the best of spirits and health remarking time and again during the ride about how beautiful a day it was.

He was heard about the house last night by the servants, but his bed had been untouched, except for the note lying on it.

Lundy and Jones instituted a search upon their arrival at the home today. The note was found when they went to his bedroom.

In his dying moments the Senator had crumpled a bath rug beneath his head for a pillow. The end of a small rubber tube, attached to an open gas jet, still was in his hand.

Senator Brandegee had no living immediate relatives except a sister Helen, wife of Captain Dalinsky, explosive expert of the United States Army, stationed in Washington. Mr. Lundy announced that the burial probably would be in New London, Ct., Mr. Brandegee's birthplace and home.

MET HEAVY LOSSES.

The residence occupied here by Senator Brandegee had been owned by him for some time. It is a rather spacious dwelling close to the downtown section and had been the scene of many important conferences among the leaders of the Senate.

Although he once was a comparatively rich man, his friends said today that he had suffered heavy losses in recent years. He was a lawyer by profession, but for some time has been heavily interested in real estate.

News of Senator Brandegee's sudden death was immediately transmitted to the White House and became circulated about the government departments, where it came as a shock to the President, Cabinet officers and his many friends.

Brandegee Sent to Congress in 1902

In the Senate, the senior member from Connecticut was known as a man who said little but did much.

In seventeen years he wrote and delivered only one address on a piece of legislation, but his simple "Lay it over" or "Tut Tut," often served to hold up action until a bill could be considered more deeply.

Senator Brandegee was born at New London, Ct., July 8, 1864. Yale was his university and he received an A. B. at New Haven in 1885.

Three years later he was admitted to the Bar and in the same year won election to the Connecticut House of Representatives, becoming speaker in his second year of service. In 1902 he went to Congress as a Representative and in 1905 was elected Senator, which office he had filled since.

He was a bitter opponent of equal suffrage and lost no opportunity to direct attacks upon the movement, drawing in return, the suffragist's retort "woman hater."

During the long fight for and against the League of Nations, Senator Brandegee was a member of that militant band of opposing Senators known as the "Battalion of Death."

A plain, blunt-spoken man, the senior member from Connecticut was a prodigious worker, practically living in the Senate building.

He was one of the senatorial coterie that aided in putting the late President Harding over during the Chicago Republican Convention in 1920. Beginning in 1888, he was a delegate to every Republican National convention.

During his earlier life he was corporation counsel of New London for ten years.

He was a collector of fine furniture and objects of art, one of Washington's most famous hosts and a Senator popular among his fellows of the upper house.

BOY TESTIFIES FOR "SPOOK-SEEKING" DAD, AGAINST MOTHER

RAYMOND FAULKNER, 12, SAYS HE LOVES FATHER BEST

Twelve years old and small for his age, Raymond Faulkner tramped sturdily up to the witness chair in Suffolk Probate Court today and testified in behalf of his father and against his pretty young mother for more than half an hour.

"Don't you love your mother?" demanded Mrs. Faulkner's lawyer, toward the close of the examination.

"Sure, a little bit, but I love my father best," the lad repeated, looking Mrs. Faulkner squarely in the eye.

BOTH ARE SUING.

The Faulkners, William E. and Florence, of No. 265 Lexington street, East Boston, are suing each other for divorce.

In her petition the wife accused him of brutality and discomforting familiarity with spirits and spiritism, particularly one Indian spook whom she said, he described as Chief High Wheat.

The son admitted in cross examination that he had seen his mother sleeping on the floor, but denied that his favorite parent made her do it.

"There was room in the bed but she told my father she wouldn't sleep in the old bed," he declared.

Questioned as to a time when his father tore his mother's dress off her because she went to a New Year's Eve party, he remembered it, but said it was accidental.

MOTHER TESTIFIES.

Mrs. Faulkner preceded her son on the witness stand. She charged desertion and cruelty, although she did not go into particulars regarding Chief High Wheat and his nocturnal communion with her husband.

She did say that Faulkner made her a virtual prisoner in their home, failed to support her and her son and snored comfortably in bed while he compelled to to pass the night on the floor without even a blanket.

She had n personal acquaintance with the spooks that her husband said visited him, she concluded, but had heard mysterious rappings and had seen her better half sit in a trance like an oriental crystal gazer for hours at a time.

"MOST BEAUTIFUL" OF N. Y. WOMEN A SUICIDE

New York, Oct. 14 (I.N.S.).—Mrs. Lewis B. Woodruff, forty years old, author and philanthropist, ended her life today in a leap from the second story of her home, No. 14 East Sixty-eighth street. She had been ill of a tubercular ailment. Two nurses attending her were busy elsewhere when she crept from bed, flung open a window and plunged to the street. Mrs. Woodruff had been described as Penrhyn Stanlaws, famous artist, as the most beautiful woman in New York.

PRAYS IN STREET, IS SENT TO PSYCHOPATHIC

A long prayer, while kneeling on the sidewalk at Washington street and Commonwealth avenue, Newton, brought John R. Roche, thirty-two, of Columbia street Cambridge, into Newton court today. He was charged with assaulting Patrolman William Whalen who had a ten-minute battle with him. Physicians who examined Roche advised that he be sent to the Psychopathic Hospital for observation. He was held in $2,000.

"L" MEN HEAR THEY WILL GET 2-CENT INCREASE

The wage increase committee of the Boston Street Carmen's Union and the arbitration committee of the Boston Elevated met today. It was predicted that the arbitration committee would announce its finding before nightfall. Members of the union said officially that they understood they were to be granted a wage increase of one or two cents an hour. The report could not be verified.

ZR-3 NEARING UNITED STATES COAST

sailors and marines were on their toes. Word had flashed over the field that direct communication had been established with the big dirigible, and that all was well with her, and that she might be expected late tonight or early tommorrow. So there began in earnest all the manouvering of paraphernalia and personnel which has been rehearsed long and often.

Watering motors slid open and shut the ponderous doors of the high domed guestroom which awaits the visitor.

Landing signals were inspected again and loaded upon trucks, ready for quick transportation to the settling spot field aerologists may designate for the big bag when it pokes a cautious nose over the horizon.

White canvas letters of heroic proportions there were, to be laid out facing skyward if the landing was by day, and rolls of electric lights for similar disposition if the ship came in at night.

Out of the dim vastness of the hangar and into the sunlight were wheeled a Martin bomber and a DH-4 observation plane. They are on special duty here. They will be fueled and kept at the taking-off line ready to dash seaward on a moment's notice if the dirigible should meet an emergency as it nears the end of its long pilgrimage.

All's Well Aboard ZR-3, Message Reads

New York, Oct. 14 (Universal).—The ZR-3 came into the range of direct radio communication with the United States early today and the following message from the ZR-3 to Secretary of the Navy Wilbur was intercepted here:

"Making good progress. Sighted San Michael Island on the port bow at 11:40. Zone 1. Position at noon 38:50 north, 25 degrees west. Average speed 67¼ miles. Air bumpy. First part forenoon cool. Ship will set direct course from Azores to Lakehurst. Since blowing valves this morning the gas fell to about 90 per cent. full. Pretty light inside hull. Pretty light coming through after compartment and through windows inside hull, but the keel corridor is a lonesome place.

"Had excellent dinner today. Soup, boiled ham, string beans and pudding. Crew getting accustomed to going without sleep, crew playing phonograph, others writing letters, no card playing yet, however. Pico Island just ahead at 1:30.

(Signed) "Steele."

Captain George W. Steele, the American naval observer aboard, who will command the naval aviation station at Lakehurst, N. J., after his arrival.

ZR-3 TO SOAR OVER SEVERAL U. S. CITIES

Lakehurst, N. J., Oct. 14 (A.P.).—Captain Anton Heiner, who took the Shenandoah on her maiden flight and F. W. von Meister, American representative of the Melbach Motor Company, declared today upon arriving here to await the coming of the ZR-3, that they had definite information she would make a considerable tour of Atlantic coast cities before landing here.

"The ZR-3 will reach the American coast in the early hours tomorrow morning" said Captain Heinen. "She is headed for New York. She will pass over that city, probably Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington and intervening cities, and will return here to land just before dusk tomorrow night."

Captain Heinen declared he had intimate knowledge of the plans of the Zeppelin Company and of Dr. Hugo Eckener, president and commander of the Zeppelin on this flight. His forecast was corroborated by Von Meister, here in the interests of the German corporation which manufactured the motors carried by ZR-3.

Captain Heinen declared he was convinced that the dirigible was running on three motors in accordance with the definitely prearranged plan, and that before she berthed here she would total more than 5,000 miles, thus breaking the record of 3,750 miles made during a wartime invasion of enemy territory by the German Zeppelin L-59.

Life Term for Slayer

Torrington, Conn., Oct. 14.—Lorenzo Sanna of Torrington, pleaded guilty to a charge of murder in the second degree before Judge John W. Banks in the superior court at Litchfield and was sentenced to life imprisonment. Sanna killed his roommate, Ralph de [illegible], in a rooming house here.

WIDOW CHARGES ATTACK BY YOUTH

Lawrence, Oct. 14.—The story of how Mrs. Emily McDorrell, a fifty-one-year-old widow of No. 101 Valley street, fought off the attack of twenty-four-year-old James Walton in a secluded spot of the Lawrence City Farm, will be told in local court tomorrow.

Walton, who is married and lives at No. 31 Allston street, this city, was arrested at the International Paper Mills, where he is employed.

The widow, who swore out a complaint against him, bears evidence on her face and body of the terrific struggle which occurred during a visit to the City Farm.

The woman told the police she was in the apple orchard when Walton appeared and lured her to a more secluded spot on the pretence that he would get her better apples. As soon as they reached a certain section of the grounds Walton sprang at her, Mrs. McDorrell told the police, and the struggle began.

AMOSKEAG ASKS TAX ABATEMENT OF $311,775

Manchester, N. H., Oct. 14.—The Amoskeag Manufacturing Company today protested to the board of tax assessors that its property has been over-taxed for 1924 by $13,000,000. The company seeks an abatement of $311,775. The tax established by the assessors for this year was $540,000. The assessors value the properties this year at $35,490,646, while the company officials claim that its property is worth $22,500,000. They claim illegal, excessive, disproportionate and unjust taxation.

BUS BOY SOCIAL FAKER HELD IN BOSTON

were Lord and Lady Herbert of England, now at Newport.

He made this admission with reluctance. Later he staged a carefully planned (?) attempt at escape.

SENT TO PSYCHOPATHIC.

Today's appearance in court followed two new bad check complaints, one by Brooks Brothers, Little Building tailors, and the other by the Harvard Cooperative store in Cambridge.

The youth—he is only eighteen years old—stuck stoutly to the declaration that he was a scion of British nobility. Inspector Stephen Flaherty had been active, however, and announced that the boy was Otto Hartman, whose guardian is Julie Sisco of No. 6657 Oliphant avenue, Chicago.

Otto seemed somewhat crushed by the denouement and admitted to Judge Lourie he had been in a Florida hospital for observation. The court immediately committed him to the Psychopathic Hospital here, thereby blocking Otto's operations for a time at least.

Otto's escapade at Newport was the cause of Homeric laughter when it became known.

Tiring of life as a bus boy in the Hotel Sherman at Chicago Otto had packed his flannel trousers and Tuxedo and started for New York. There he attended the wedding of Kathleen Vanderbilt without her knowledge it is unnecessary to add), and then hopped down to Newport.

Correctly arrayed in flannels and dark coat, he was "discovered" on the tennis courts by Mrs. Arthur Curtis James, wife of the millionaire chairman of the Newport Casino Lawn Tennis Association.

FINALLY DISCOVERED.

Mrs. James insisted Otto was Morris Duane, captain of the Harvard tennis team. Young Hartman accepted the role, and was entertained by debutantes on the James yacht, the Aloha.

Because of the attentions paid him by a flaming haired young "deb," Otto was singled out for espionage by Kenneth A. Shaw. As a result he was found to be an impostor, and was turned over to the police.

An attempted suicide was staged on this occasion by the glib-tongued youth, then only eighteen, perhaps to touch the heart of the red-haired debutante. At any rate someone bought him a ticket to Chicago and the police put him on the train.

Catholics Banned at Capital, Says Achbishop

Baltimore, Oct. 14—Religious discrimination in government departments is organized and rampant, Archbishop Curley said at the second annual dinner of the Italian Club in celebration of Columbus Day.

The Veterans' Bureau and the Treasury Departments are the two government departments where Catholics are discriminated against because of their religious faith, Archbishop Curley said. The prelate declared there is little consolation in the academic statement that "the constitution safeguards adequately our religious liberty."

GIRL OF LONG NAME CLIPS IT BY WEDDING

Arrives From England Devonian; Marries Pittsburgh Man in Boston

Miss Josephine Winifred Warmington came to Boston all the way from Davenport, England, to have her name clipped in half.

The propellers of the Leyland liner Devonian had hardly stopped churning when the pretty English girl tripped down the gangplank.

Fortunately, however, she fell into the arms of William Moffat, who came all the way from Airbrake avenue, Pittsburgh, to save her fifteen letters on every calling card.

The immigration officials being sympathetic, it wasn't much more than the wink of an eye when Josephine Winifred May Warmington emerged from Seaman's Bethel nearby under her new name of Mrs. William Moffat.

There were eighty-three passengers brought in by the Devonian in addition to the blushing bride. Thirty-five of them were school teachers, overdue in their classrooms, scattered from Rhode Island to California. They just couldn't wait to get back and mark somebody down in their studies.

The Devonian also carried considerable freight.

CHILDREN SHOT DEAD IN MEXICO STREET FIGHT

Factions of Rival Gubernatorial Candidates Fire Volleys Into Crowds

Mexico City, Oct. 14 (A.P.)—A bloody clash between political factions at Tuxtla Gutierrez, in which more than 100 persons are said to have been killed or wounded, is reported in press dispatches. The Mexican War Department confirms the news.

Dispatches say the trouble began when supporters of General Carlos Vidal, Governor-elect of Chiapas, organized a demonstration for his reception, a large crowd gathering at the railway station. Upon General Vidal's arrival a score of shots was fired into the crowd, allegedly by supporters of Ramirez Corzo, the defeated gubernatorial candidate. The volley caused many fatilities, among them women and children it is declared.

Two of General Vidal's aides are reported to have been among those killed.

The stage, which talks to the mind, through the eye and ear simultaneously, ought to have the greatest power, but it hasn't.

ANATOLE FRANCE dies, calling for his mother. The great French writer had lived 80 years, achieved fame, a great name. All that seemed small in the last minute of the 80 years. The memory of his mother stood out above all the rest.

At the beginning and at the end, the mother comes first. In between, others have their turn.

THE BIG ZEPPELIN, ZR-3, started for America to the tune of "Deutschland Ueber Alles." If that big, unwieldy gas bag can leave Germany on Monday morning and land in Lakehurst, four thousand miles away, on the following Wednesday morning, how long do you think it will take high-powered heavier-than-air machines to cross the Pacific or the Atlantic with TNT and poison gas a few years from now?

'TIS SAID the administration will ask Congress to spend ten millions extra this year on flying machines and that the appropriation will be opposed in the House of Representatives.

The appropriation ought to be big enough to give this country the most powerful flying fleet in the world. Write THAT to your Congressman. In the last war, when we were scared to death and tried to get flying machines in a hurry, we spent $600,000,000, but did not get machines that could fly. It would be a good idea to manufacture machines here at our leisure, meanwhile buying them abroad. We shall need them more than ever in the next war. Enough flying machines and submarines owned in the United States might postpone that war indefinitely.

IN MADISON SQUARE GARDEN two able lawyers, Hillquitt and Untermyer, debated La Follette's suggestion that Congress, under conditions, should have power to pass legislation over an adverse decision of the Supreme Court.

We are a cosmopolitan race. Ten thousand gathered to hear a discussion of the Constitution, and the two discussing it were both of Jewish blood, one from Russia, the other of German descent; one a Socialist, the other a capitalist.

Finds Roll of Bills and His Legs Go Into Action

While four fruit pedlars were walking along High street, near Federal street today, they discovered a roll of bills in United States currency in the street. One of the pedlars, giving his name as S. Bucere, picked up the money. He suddenly rushed down High street.

The other pedlars gave an alarm and Patrolman Connolly followed Bucere to the South Station, where he caught him and took him to the City Hall avenue station.

Bucere was allowed to go, but the police say the money is waiting its owner.

Machinists' Leader Accuses the Secretary of State in Foreign Shipping Deal

Washington, Oct. 14.—William H. Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists, was quoted in a statement issued today by the La Follette-Wheeler campaign headquarters as demanding the "immediate removal of Charles Evans Hughes from his post as Secretary of State and investigation of his connection with an Austro-Italian shipping concern."

Johnston was represented in the statement as declaring that "Hughes put through a deal for the concern which crippled our merchant fleet, was illegal and irregular, and cost taxpayers thousands of dollars."

The statement referred to matters brought up at hearings of the House Shipping Board Committee.

Johnston referred specifically to the sale of the Steamer Martha Washington, a war prize, to triest corporation, with which Hughes had been connected as an attorney before he came Secretary of State.

In reply the State Department made public an affidavit signed by William Phillips, then Under-Secretary of State, on the 26th of April 1924, in which Mr. Phillips declare the case involving the Martha Washington was handled "under his sole direction," and "at not time referred to the Secretary of State.

TUNEFUL SONGS MARK SHOW AT WILBUR

'Sitting Pretty' Sparkles With Fun Without Jazz or Coarse Comedy

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

BELIEVE it or not, musical comedy may still stand on sturdy, symetrical legs and turn in a good evening's job for the jaded threate goer without calling for support upon syncopated tunes, coarse comedy or a bleating saxophone. It was the absence of the familiar jazz tempo in "Sitting Pretty" at the Wilbur last night that gave this cheerful and melodious affair its chief distinction among the early season's musical offerings, which, as they may be recalled, have run more to boisterous frolicking than to any rare quality in the matter of book or score.

If there is anything resembling class in musical comedy as it descends upon you in election years "Sitting Pretty" may lay lawful claim to full honors. The verdict of a big holiday audience was unanimous—a happy evening, well spent. But it was not a noisy evening except [illegible], when the audience threatened to get out of bounds in its applause. A Bolton-Wodehouse-Kern combination of effort in musical entertainment usually carries its own endorsement and "Sitting Pretty" proved no exception to the accepted rule.

A surprisingly [illegible] and interesting story, rich in clever comedy, engaging musical numbers and a Jerome Kern score of more than passing merit simplified the task of the player folk. Good material works its own influence upon actors, which may have accounted for much that was merry in the antics of Frank McIntyre, whose ample girth invited gaiety on both sides of the curtain line.

Jazz numbers may have been crowded out of "Sitting Pretty" but there was nothing omitted in the well-known and always popular styles of cyclonic dancing. Emmie Haig and Mercer Templeton took an early lead in this respect and held it to the end.

Miss Haig, in her own way, gathered laughter and cheers as she transformed herself into a human whirlwind, while Mr. Templeton easily fell into the daring ways of the acrobatic dancer.

Jack McGowan and Estaire Kaye completed the roster of those who added more than a mite to the joys of a large evening. Smart costuming, brilliant scenic embellishments and gorgeous ensembles directed by Fred G. Latham and Julian Alfred were naturally included in this jazzless entertainment.

In the aristocracy of musical comedy, "Sitting Pretty" presides at the inner circle.

BELLE BAKER HEADS KEITH'S VAUDEVILLE

Belle Baker, the incomparable singing comedienne, is the headliner at B. F. Keith's Theatre this week. She presents a repertory of ballads and jazz songs. Mason and Keeler, popular stars, appearing in a one-act playlet, "Married," present another feature act.

"See America First," with Lee Donnelly and a company of pretty girls, was the spectacular act of the bill and was well received. The revue has plenty of singing and dancing. Handsome settings and good comedy rounds out the act.

Among the other artists on the bill are: Castleton and Mack, eccentric dancers; Hawthorne and Cook comedians; Gautiers' Phonograph Dogs Roger Williams, the boy from Dixie; and Torino, the juggler.

Coming Events

Ramon Navarro in "The Red Lily" will be the film feature at the Fenway beginning Saturday.

Lionel Barrymore in "Laugh, Clown, Laugh" will take the stage at the Tremont Monday.

"Just Married" will be the attraction at the Somerville next week.

HILARITY MARKS NEW SHOW AT MAJESTIC

Audience Whistles and Cheers for Encores at "Dixie tto Broadway"

Yesterday being a prominent discoverer's anniversary, a hoard of hilarity was discovered in Boston, the same being here for only two weeks.

Just when the nation of firstnighters was settling down to rehearse the story to the favorite grandchild of how the colored shows, "Shuffle Along" and "In Bamville" cracked them out of their crust for two hours and nearly another, one Florence Mills, who describes herself as "high brown," rattles her slippers into the Hub and does the town up just that way.

There have been many shows in Boston since George M. Cohan's "Hello Broadway" revue, danced and jazzed the Hub into enthusiasm in 1914. Until "Dixie to Broadway" cycloned into the Majestic theatre however, nothing to equal the other Broadway piece has come out of New York, in this reviewer's estimation.

"Dixie to Broadway" is better than "Shuffle Along," "In Bamville," the composite of any five Ziegfeld Follies, Nick Altrock, Scotch and Soda or several gold pieces from home.

Tell a Broadway veteran of the showshop that a first night audience in a first class Boston theatre whistled, shrieked and howled its plaudits for encore after encore—and he'll mention Mattewan or Bellevue under his breath and escape into the Lamb's Club.

But that was what happened at the Majestic theatre last night.

Boston has believed it has seen dancers. It has—Jack Donahue, George Cohan, Billy Robinson (colored), Tom Dingle, Doyle and Dixon, Fred Stone. But see Johnny Nit—and his dancing companions.

FENWAY—(Films) — Douglas MacLean in "Never Say Die."

CENTRAL SQ.—"The Alaskan," for three days.

Continuing Shows

HOLLIS—Cyril Maude in "Aren't We All." A Frederick Lonsdale comedy.

PLYMOUTH — "Outward Bound." Comedy drama touching upon the hereafter.

TREMONT—Irene Bordoni in "Little Miss Bluebeard." Comedy with songs.

COLONIAL—Fred Stone in "Stepping Stones." Also including Dorothy Stone.

SELWYN—William Hodge in "For All of Us." Homespun comedy.

PACKED HOUSE GREETS NEW COPLEY COMPANY

A crowded house, filled with enthusiastic patrons, greeted the former Henry Jewett Players upon their return to the Copley Theatre under the name of the Copley Repertory Company.

After going on the rocks at the Arlington Theatre the company, managed by E. E. Clive, one of its members went back to the scene of their many triumphs in the English comedy, "Bed Rock."

At the conclusion the players met the patrons both on and off stage It seemed like old times and everybody was happy.

BIG AUDIENCE GREETS 'WILDFLOWER' OPENING

Edith Day brought the new Arthur Hammerstein musical comedy, "Wildflower," to the Shubert last night and got away to a good start before a holiday audience. "Wildflower" comes to Boston with a record of having tipped New York on end for a full season. Its music is by Herbert Stothart and Vincent Youmans, and the book and lyrics were done by Otto Harbach and Oscar Hammerstein, 2nd.

"Wildflower" will be reviewed in Wednesday's Boston American

COHAN PLAY PROVES DELIGHTFUL FARCE

"So this Is London" proved enjoyable to the audiences at the Somerville theatre yesterday.

"So This Is London," originally produced by George M. Cohan, is a clean, clever, wholesome play. Its double-edged satire provides a vast amount of laughable comedy situations, and from beginning to end is an uncommonly fresh and humorous entertainment.

The play has a mission to perform that of fostering a better feeling between Americans and Englishmen.

MARION DAVIES SUPERB IN 'YOLANDA'

Star Wins Great Applause in Dual Role in Mediaeval Romance

The Cosmopolitan production, "Yolanda," starring Marion Davies, opened at the Orpheum by scoring the same success it has achieved wherever it has been shown.

In "Yolanda," Marion Davies eclipses the superb acting which marked her performances in "When Knighthood was in Flower" and "Little Old New York." The audience at the opening was evidently made up of hundreds of "fans" who have become enthusiasts for Miss Davies' acting.

A cast of rare excellence supports Miss Davies in the film. There are Holbrook Blinn, Lyn Harding, Ralph Graves, Leon Errol, Maclyn Arbuckle and Johnny Dooley. Blinn's portrayal of Louis XI. is a feature.

A dual role is played by Miss Davies. She is both Princess Mary of Burgundy and a simple little burgher maid, Yolanda, and she carries into each portrayal the effectiveness of manner and the beauty that characterizes her pictures. There is one word that sums up her work—she is lovely.'

"Yolanda" is a thrilling romance. It is a delightful story, artistically told. The settings are magnificent. The story is about those persons of high estate who lend so much attractiveness to romances.

The comedy touch is provided in good measure by Johnny Dooley, as the half-witted son of Louis, whose antics are hilarity-producers. Lyn Harding, as Charles the Bold, is very entertaining. The acting of Holbrook Blinn, Leon Errol and Maclyn Arbuckle, known to thousands of theatre-goers, is of the same calibre that has made them favorites on the speaking stage.

DE WOLF HOPPER SCORES IN 'WANG' AT OPERA HOUSE

DeWolf Hopper, the incomparable, would have to search far and wide for a better operetta for his closing week in Boston than is "Wang" the attraction this week at the Boston Opera House.

As "Wang" Mr. Hopper appears to better advantage than in any of the five weeks of his stay in Boston. He has been excellent in his other parts, but as "Wang"—well, you should go and see him.

"Wang" is a decidedly light affair as far as plot goes. It is simply the story of the Regent of Siam who has an elephant on his hands that he can't pay for. He is dead broke and in order to secure a chest of wealth which belongs to the future king he marries a sour old widow with a housefull of daughters. Then "Wang" discovers he has been carrying the wealth around for several years in the cloak he has been wearing.

ARTIFICIAL SUN WILL PREVENT RICKETS

Experiments on Chicks Show How Children Can Be Cured of Weakness

Orono, Me., Oct. 14.—The health-giving effect of artificial sunlight, powerful in ultra-violet rays rather than in light or heat intensity, obtained by use of a fused quartz mercury vapor arc lamp produced at Lynn, Mass., was demonstrated today at the University of Maine by President C. C. Little of the university and Dr. W. T. Bovie, professor of biophsics at the Harvard Medical School, who have been conducting a series of experiments with chicks.

The findings of these scientists, it was claimed, revealed important medical properities of such light, not only in the raising of chicks but in the prevention of diseases of children, especially for rickets.

Experiments conducted on a brood of pedigreed chicks indicated, according to Drs. Little and Bovie, that not only can larger and stronger chicks be raised under the artificial sunlight but that chicks which were raised under natural sunlight filtered through ordinary window glass developed weak legs or rickets, weighed but one fifth as much as the others and died unless a change in living conditions were made. Ordinary window glass, it was explained, is opaque to ultra-violet rays.

"Babies, particularly those of poor families brought up in dark alleys and crowded tenement houses, and rich children brought up in homes where windows are closed and all the sunlight is filtered through glass, develop rickets," Dr. Bovie said. "This is one of the chief causes of bow legs, which most mothers believe are caused by allowing the child to stand on its feet or walk too early in life.

"The results of these experiments are of a very great economic value, because it is the common experience of chicken-growers that the death rate of chicks at the age of four or five weeks is very high. T[illegible] show that the death rate can be reduced by supplying the chicks with ultra-violet light.

"The importance of these experiments would be very great if they were only applicable to the raising of chickens. They are quite as applicable to the production of eggs and, more important still, they are applicable to the raising of our own children; for the disease known as rickets is a disease of calcium metabolism and can be cured by a proper exposure to the ultra-violet light."

GUN AND REVOLVER LED TO AN ARREST

Just as he was to step into an automobile of a costly make on Hanover street today James Bennett of Poplar street, Chelsea, was arrested by Patrolman Lynch of the City Hall avenue police station charged with carrying a revolver and a shot gun without a license.

Pedestrians saw Bennett with a gun and notified the officer who investigated. He took the gun away from Bennett and then looked the car over where he found a shot gun in the rear seat. Bennett told the officer he was going duck hunting. He was immediately placed under arrest.

DRUGS EXCITE THE KIDNEYS, DRINK WATER

Take Jad Salts at First Sign of Acid Irritation or Backache

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead or your back hurts if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

FORMER BOSTON GIRL MARRIES BRITISH LORD

Philippa Wendell Becomes Lady Galloway at Ceremony in London

Lady Galloway.

For the second time in two brief years a daughter of the late Jacob Wendell became a member of the British nobility when Miss Philippa Wendell was married to the Earl of Galloway in London today. Her sister, Miss Catherine, married Lord Porchester, only son of the Earl and Countess of Carnarvon, July 17 1922.

The popularity of the Wendell girls and the large number of persons who wished to see the newlyweds at the wedding reception today forced Mrs. Wendell, mother of Miss Philippa, to abandon plans for holding the event at her home at No. 34 Bryanstone square and to move the scene to Claridge's.

Fifteen hundred of the best known folk in London society were present. The wedding ceremony was performed at St. Margaret's, Westminster.

The bride's dress was of ivory and radium satin with a train woven of gold and silver tissue. She was attended by ten bridesmaids wearing picture gowns fringed with silver lace. White heather and Stewart tartan figured largely in the decorations.

The Wendell girls are daughters of a man of charm. John Wendell was a striking figure in athletics at Harvard and he was not only a star in sports, but came to be the best amateur actor in all the college.

His theatrical bent led him to the professional stage, where he was known as the millionaire actor. He it was who appeared as The Dog in the first presentation of "The Blue Bird" when that mystic creation unfolded itself at what was then the New Theatre in New York, built to give the rich a place where they would feel at home.

PRINCE DANCES WITH FLAPPER ARMY

Boston Girls, Love Rivals, Plead to Save Man's Life

NEW JAZZ RECORD BY PRINCE

More Than Three Score Chicago Flappers Dance Partners in One Evening

Chicago, Oct. 14 A.P.)—After delaying his departure three hours to dance with nearly all of three score women at an exclusive dinner party at the Saddle and Cycle Club, the Prince of Wales left for Detroit on a special train at 3:35 a. m. today.

Smiling and affable, but tired after nearly twenty hours of constant activity, the heir to the British throne was driven directly from the club to the private car of Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Grand Trunk Railroad, attached to the special which had been held at the Prince's request.

VISITOR MOBBED.

The Prince's progress throughout the city was hailed with outbursts of enthusiasm that several times threatened to overwhelm him and his hosts.

Once surging crowds at the Field Museum brushed aside police lines and the Prince's party was pushed and jolted. In the melee the Prince himself picked up a small boy and saved from being trampled.

Again when he stopped at the Chicago Club several thousand persons got out of police control and impeded the progress of the automobile in which he was leaving.

Throughout, the Prince smiled and strove to satisfy the throngs. He remonstrated when the crush at the museum made it necessary for the party to leave by a door which left an assembly of thousands disappointed.

DISLIKES BARRIERS.

At the stock yards he expressed regret that the police had roped off a passage. He said he would rather not see people restrained that way.

Detroit, Oct. 14.—Assembling of a complete automobile at the Highland Park plant of the Ford Motor Company is one of the features planned for the schedule visit of the Prince of Wales at Highland Park.

The automobile, which will be known as the "Prince of Wales Special" will be assembled while the Prince looks on, and will be put together in an effort to break the present production record of the plant, which is eleven minutes and forty seconds.

BRITISH POSTERS LINK LABOR AND BOLSHEVISM

London, Oct. 14 (I.N.S.)—Tory posters appearing today make Bolshevism the big issue of the coming election, though the laborites, fighting for a return to power, have disclaimed any alliance with the Communists.

The majority of the posters attack Bolshevism and the Russian treaty Ramsay MacDonald, Labor Premier, sought to conclude.

One of the posters reads:

"Bolshevik, Bolshevik, where have you been?

"Over to England where reds are still green."

WESTERN UNION CABLE REPAIR STEAMER SINKS

Jersey City, N. J., Oct. 14.—The S. S. Western Union, owned and used by the Western Union Telegraph Company for cable repairs in New York harbor, sank in twelve feet of water off Hudson street today. William Simmons, the only person aboard escaped. The ship is 160 feet in length and has a displacement of 1,840 tons.

100 NATIVE PRIESTS DIE IN EAST INDIAN FLOOD

Allahabad, India., Oct. 14 (I.N.S.).—One hundred Indian priests lost their lives when a holy spot near Hardwar was inundated, according to information received here today. The priests refused to leave, despite the steadily encroaching flood.

GIRL VICTIM IN TRIPLE SLASHING AT LYNN

JULIA DEME

Chelsea woman was cut on the wrist when she sought to defend her father, James Carulli, who was attacked by her brother-in-law, Fiore De Maio of Beverly, at the christening of the last-named's third child in Lynn. Her effort was in vain, as Carulli died shortly after De Maio had slashed his throat.

$38,000,000 IN HARRIMAN DEAL WITH SOVIET

Moscow, Oct. 14. (A.P.)—The final details of the contract between the Soviet government and American interests represented by W. A. Harriman & Co., of New York, covering exploitation of the Georgian manganese fields, have been agreed upon.

The Americans agree to pay a royalty of $3 per ton up to the time they construct railroad, harbor, mines and improvements, after which the government will receive $4.

The concession will run for twenty years. The Americans are to ship a total of 2,750,000 tons during the first five years, the shipments increasing on a sliding scale over five-year periods.

The contract involves no preliminary payment, but if the present terms are fulfilled, the Soviet government will ultimately receive from the Americans about $38,000,000.

The Americans are given the right to employ local Russian labor on their own terms, and to bring in machinery and necessary equipment free of duty.

This is the largest and most important concession granted since the revolution. Tremendous political pressure was brought to bear through British, German and other sources to induce the Soviet to reconsider its decision, but the Americans won by dint of clever negotiating, more favorable financial terms and superb technical equipment.

The German interests in attempting to block the award to the Americans alleged that it was unfair in lieu of the fact that Germans had constituted twenty per cent. of the mine operators in the Chiatouri district of Georgia before the revolution.

THOMAS F. WHITE DIES AT HYDE PARK HOME

Thomas F. White, retired Dorchester contractor, died today at his home, No. 7 Austin street, Hyde Park, aged 77 years. Mr. White had seven children, of whom three sons are physicians and two daughters the wives of physicians.

COAL MINE OPERATORS VOLUNTARY BANKRUPTS

New York, Oct. 14.—A voluntary petition was filed today by the Pennsylvania Collieries, Inc., coal operators. The liabilities were estimated at $474,279 and the assets at $26,461. The physical liabilities were disputed claims for balance due on income tax from 1917 to 1920, amounting to $90,322, and the liability to bondholders, amounting to $296,000.

GRIM TRAGEDY REHEARSED AT CHRISTENING

Fiore DeMaio of No. 160 Washington street, Peabody, celebrated the christening of his third born child by cutting the throat of his father-in-law and slashing his mother-in-law and a sister-in-law.

The victim of DeMaio's knife who met death is James Carrulli, age 72, of No. 133 Pleasant street, Lynn, at which place the tragedy occurred. Mrs. Rosa Carrulli and her daughter, Mrs. Julia Deme of No. 86 Sixth street, Chelsea were cut but not seriously injured.

Following the slaying the Lynn police arrested DeMaio at a house in the neighborhood. The man admitted using the knife but declared that he was attacked by his father-in-law and used the knife in self-defense. He exhibited cuts on his back to prove his contention.

De Maio was held without bail today in Lynn District Court on a charge of murder. The hearing was continued to October 21. Philip, a relative, was held on a charge of assault on De Maio with a dangerous weapon.

Mrs. Julia Demeo and James Demeo of Chelsea, and Rose Carulli of Lynn were held in $200 each as material witnesses.

FRED C. LANE OUT FOR COUNCILMAN OF REVERE

Fred C. Lane, No. 10 Beachland avenue, Revere, is conducting an energetic campaign for the office of city councilman, Ward 5, Revere.

Fred C. Lane

"Boost Revere!" is the Lane slogan. As the candidate was born in Revere and has always been one of its most active citizens in aiding progressive civic movements, it is natural that he should receive the support of the voters.

In his campaign arguments, Lane has pointed out that Revere is one of the most ideal cities in the State and that real estate values would increase and business boom if everybody would get behind him in his plan to promote a better civic spirit in Revere, and point out the advantages of the city to outsiders.

Lane is active in newspaper work, being associated with the Boston American as a sporting writer.

BOTH CLAIM HIM FOR HUSBAND

Deserted Bride of the Accused Slayer Stands With Girl Who Stole Affections

Two former Boston girls, both beautiful, were today scheduled to occupy the centre of the stage of life and death drama at the famous Winter resort of Miami, Fla.

Before the gaze of sophisticated tourists and unsympathetic natives, they were scheduled to play their parts in an attempt to win the freedom of a man they both claim, who is charged with murder.

The women are Lucille Brain, one time Winter Garden show girl, who lived at No. 68 Louis Prang street, this city, and Maybelle Cassavant, formerly a stenographer who lived on Westland avenue, Back Bay.

ACCUSED OF MURDER.

The man in the triangle is Julian C. Brain, former Worcester bond salesman, who goes on trial in the Miami Criminal Court for the murder of Raymond Lee at Hillcrest Inn, a Florida roadhouse, last October.

Both women have claimed Brain as their husband, but it is expected the Cassavant girl will admit an illegal marriage took place in order that she may testify for the man she loves.

MARRIED BRAIN.

Three years ago a girl known as Lucille Mason became the hit of "The Passing Show." She was Lucia Gerski, Polish by birth, whose home was in Woonsocket, R. I.

A short time later she married Julian C. Brain, whose real name is Chester Cechowicz, a resident of Hartford, Conn. He was a salesman for the defunct G. F. Redmond Company. It is a significant coincidence that on the day his trial for murder begins, George F. Redmond appeared in Federal Court in an attempt to have a contempt charge purged so that he might be released on bail.

BRIDE DESERTED.

The couple lived together in Hartford for a year and then moved to New York. In January of last year Brain deserted his young bride, and went to Worcester. There he met Maybelle Cassavant, who was employed in a store in the business center. Sometime later she accompanied him to Florida, where his two brothers conducted a roadhouse. Last October Lee, with companions, visited the roadhouse. He is said to have engaged in an argument with Eddie and John Brain, the proprietors. Julian went to the defense of his brothers. In some manner a shotgun in the hands of Julian was discharged and Lee was killed.

GIRL TAKES BLAME.

Miss Cassavant told the police that she fired the shot. She also insisted she was Julian's wife. Later she confessed she was in a delicate condition and that Brain was the father of her unborn child. The police ordered her release, and she was cared for by a welfare society.

Today it was expected she would take the stand, and out of her love for Brain, admit she was not his wife in order that she might testify for him.

In the meantime the real Mrs. Brain is said to be in Miami anxious to do all in her power to help her husband, who, she says, sent for her.

EX-STRAUS SECRETARY IS KILLED BY GAS

White Plains, N. Y., Oct. 14.—Warren Parsons, fifty-eight, who once was secretary to Oscar S. Straus former ambassador to Turkey and to George B. McClellan, former mayor of New York, was found dead in his room in the Y. M. C. A. today. There was a gas heater in the room and the coroner pronounced death accidental.

Swedish Government Resigns

London, Oct. 14. (A.P.) — The Swedish government, headed by Premier Ernst Trygger, has resigned, says a Copenhagen dispatch.

Fights for Slayer

LUCILLE MASON BRAIN.

Young wife, cast off by Boston man, now on trial for his life at Miami, has forgiven him and will stand with woman who supplanted her while they strive to free man they both love.

Loves of a Modern Flapper Told in Best Romance Ever Written by Author of "Chickie"

By ELENORE MEHERIN

ON the quiet walks with her mother, Nora Lee's visions ran wild. She grabbed Margaret's hand, whispering tensely:

"Marmee, look at that white streak of sand. I thought it was a ghost. Really, truly! Maybe there are ghosts. You can't be sure, can you? Oh, up here there might be!"

Up here there was loneliness and a pall of quiet. Up here there might be anything. How she longed to escape! She used to cover her tablet with strange messages. "We are all alone up here—a little girl and her mother. We never have any fun. Please come and get us? Nora Lee."

She scattered the bits of paper stealthily along the road and in the brush, thinking: "Someone will find them. They will come for us!"

Usually she fancied it would be Andrew who was to come. She hoped so.

Every month there came a letter from Fairdale. Often there were books. Nora Lee knew it was Andrew who sent that heavy

DEFEAT OF CORNELL BOOSTS WENDELL FOR HARVARD JOB

BIG THREE DUE FOR LOSSES

By HERBERT REED.
("Right Wing")

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (Universal). —Big time football will hit so fast and serious a stride this Saturday that the memory of certain mishaps of the preliminary season probably will be wiped out—since there are no doubt greater mishaps to come.

Yale, with the strong Dartmouth eleven in the offing; Harvard facing Cleo O'Donnell's Holy Cross team, and Army, tackling Notre Dame in the first game of its Eastern invasion this year, have plenty to worry about.

IN the meantime there is need of something in the way of interpretation of what has already happened.

The time is past, no matter how great the material, when any of the eastern Big Three may confidently count upon coming up to its big November games unbeaten. This is due not merely to the strengthening of the schedules following an unmistakable public demand, but also to the triangular agreement that forces Yale, Harvard and Princeton to a shorter season of preparation.

These three "Big" teams are still very green. Even veterans need a deal of preliminary work that it is no longer possible to give them. So the October defeats of Yale, Harvard or Princeton, when they do come through, are hardly to be called "upsets."

THERE is, however, quite another explanation of the defeat of Cornell by Williams.

Percy Wendell, the Williamstown strategist, is so good a coach that it is an open secret that some day there will be a big and influential bloc of Harvard men who will insist upon his succeeding Bob Fisher at Cambridge.

Percy Wendell is teaching as sound a brand of football as is to be found anywhere in the country, and his teams, though light, have a charge that is the envy of every opponent. Add to that good passing, and splendid end play, and it will readily be seen that the Williamstown aggregation is formidable.

TURNING now to Cornell and Dobie. The Ithaca coach, too often expected to accomplish miracles, has not at hand this year the men with whom to do those things.

Even a year ago he was fortunate in winning the Williams game, and the battle with Dartmouth was far closer than the score would indicate. And this with the great George Pfann in the lineup.

There is no George Pfann this year, and small prospects of one. Nor is there yet in sight one of those big Swede tackles in whom Dobie puts so much faith.

Dobie's crashing tackle play requires a straight-charging tackle of great power, and at least one superlative ball-carrier in the "three out and up" that goes inside, outside and over the defensive tackle position.

IT was inevitable that Dobie's pet play eventually would be stopped, for there is no secret about it. It is a play designed to put on the pressure, and once the pressure fails to wreck the defence, it will stop in its tracks.

In the meantime, Dobie's plays being based on drill, drill, drill, where positions are taken so accurately that a few inches out spoil them, there has not been time to build up the rest of the attack to support the tackle smash in case it should be stopped.

Fumbling, of course, played its part, but the team is unmistakably not so good as last year, at this writing. I doubt if it will be as good in the final game.

WHEN Jack Owsley, who is the real Yale schedule maker, took on Dartmouth, it was a snap decision, made without any thought of just what was in store for the Elis. Owsley knew, of course, that he would be in for a hard game, and that was just what he wanted. Even a defeat, which is among the possibilities, will not greatly matter.

Against Dartmouth the Elis will have an opportunity to show whether they have been able to find a successor to Richeson at quarter. It is many a year since Yale has had a real quarter-back of its own making. The last was Chet LaRoche. Whether Eddie Bench will be the second in line remains to be seen.

Woostroff Penathahlon King

New York, Oct. 14.—Anthony Woostroff of the Newark Athletic Club won the National A. A. U. pentathalon championship at Travers Island.

EAGLE VICTOR OVER FORDHAM IS COSTLY

Boston College captured the first leg of the annual Jesuit College championship when Fordham was crushed at Braves Field yesterday in a stubborn 28 to 0 battle.

The victory proved a costly one for Boston College as Tom O'Brien, veteran tackle was severely injured.

Stock in the coming game with Syracuse rose considerably as a result of the Eagle showing, with the rushing tactics of the Maroon and Gold sure to prove a powerful factor.

B. C. made seven first downs while Fordham was unable to complete the docket at any time. Darling's punting was the feature of the game, continually putting B. C. in scoring position.

The Eagles' first score came in the opening period, when O'Brien, the Eagle tackle, gathered up a Fordham fumble behind the New Yorkers' goal. McManus lived up to his reputation, scoring each of the extra points by the placement kick route.

Two more touchdowns followed in the second period, when B. C. opened up the rushing game in earnest. Bill Cronin finally carried the ball over. Right on the heels of this score penalties to Fordham gave B. C. another chance. Ward and Darling continually made first downs.

LYNN TO STAGE RING SHOW FOR AMATEURS

The Pioneer A. A. of Lynn will hold another open amateur boxing show at Casino Hall, Lynn, on October 24. The following classes will be contested: 112 and 118 novice, while 147 and 160 will find a good many athletic youngsters performing.

Entries will close on October 23 with Louis Penny, No. 101 Church street, Lynn.

TOMMY LOUGHRAN AND HARRY GREB IN DRAW

Philadelphia, Oct. 14 (Universal).—Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia light heavyweight, battled Harry Greb, world's middleweight title holder, to a ten-round draw here. The judges disagreed as to the winner and Referee Frank McCracken declared the bout a draw. Greb's title was not at stake as both fighters tipped the scales at 168 pounds.

DARTMOUTH IS FAVORITE TO BEAT YALE

New Haven, Ct., Oct. 14—Yale's failure to defeat Georgia by better than a 7 to 6 score has made it certain that Dartmouth will come here next Saturday as favorite in one of the headline matches of the season for the East.

The Yale coaches today decided to try this week to build a steadier rush line. They feel that the guard and tackle positions were played abominably against Georgia and say that only three members of the line, Captain Lovejoy at center and Luman and Bingham at ends, are sure of their positions. Another shift is expected today.

Yale has made only 33 points in two games against Georgia and North Carolina, but Dartmouth had accumulated 130 in three games against Norwich, McGill and Vermont universities.

Eddie Bench will be retained at quarterback as a result of Saturday's showing against Georgia, and Ray Pond and Dan Allen have clinched their places in the backfield. The other backfield role will be essayed by either Eddie Cottle, Jack Failing, Dan Allen and Ben Butler and the choice will not be made until late this week.

Injuries to Halfback Jack Kline and Jerry Wadsworth placed two promising stars out of the running for the Yale early games, including the Dartmouth match.

Kramer and Suggs Top Card at C. A. C.

Matchmaker Bob McKirdy of the Commercial A. C. has arranged one of the best all-star cards for his next show that has been seen in this city. Colonel Bob will show four ten-rounders at the Boston Arena a week from tomorrow.

The contests will be elimination bantamweight and featherweight matches. In the opening ten-rounder Tommy Murray, crack Philadelphia bantamweight, will throw punches at the English bantamweight, Johnny Cuthbert.

In the second bout Leo "Kid" Roy, Canadian featherweight champion, will try and annex a win over Spencer Gardner, Newport featherweight, in ten rounds.

The semi-windup will show that sterling Philadelphia junior lightweight, Eddie "Kid" Wagner, hurling punches at Honeyboy Finigan of Dorchester.

The windup will bring together Chick Suggs, New England bantamweight and featherweight champion, going the ten-round route with Danny Kramer of Philadelphia.

McGRAW AND DOLAN HOLD CONFERENCE

New York, Oct. 14.—It was reported today that John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants and Cozy Dolan, his ex-coach, who was banished from baseball for alleged attempted bribery, held a two-hour conference last night just before McGraw left to join his club on a tour of the world. The outcome of the meeting was not made known.

NORTH CAMBRIDGE MAY QUIT TWILIGHT LEAGUE

Nashua, Oct. 14.—It is planned to have the makeup of the Central Massachusetts baseball league next season considerably different. The new circuit is to include Manchester, Nashua, Lowell, Lawrence, Lynn, Salem, North Cambridge and Fitchburg. The new places will be Lowell, Lawrence, Lynn and North Cambridge.

REPORT STRIBLING TO RETIRE FOR STUDIES

New York, Oct. 14.—According to local promoters, Young Stribling, Georgia schoolboy boxer, has retired from the ring for a period of four months in order to resume his studies. This information, they said, came to him in answer to bids for Stribling's services.

RINDGE 12 TO 0 VICTOR IN A ROUGH GAME

In one of the roughest games played by school teams in years, Rindge Technical mastered Cambridge Latin High to the tune of 12 to 0 at Russell Field yesterday. Four of the contending players are now receiving hospital treatment with a score or more suffering from minor injuries subtained in the game.

Rivalry between the two schools was at fever heat. It was evident before the game that bad blood would crop up before the contest came to a close. The officials, though handing out many penalties, were unable to cope with the situation.

MEDFORD OPENS TITLE DEFENCE BY 23-0 WIN

Medford High plastered Somerville, 23 to 0, at the George Dilboy Field. About 10,000 fans celebrated Medford's first Suburban League victory of the season. Somerville was without the services of four regulars. Sweeping end runs by Ellis and Hormell, Michaelson's line plunging and Mander's all around work held the spotlight. Captain Mattern's work prevented Medford from running up a much larger score.

BOSTON LATIN DEFEATED BY NORWOOD ELEVEN

Norwood High defeated the Boston Latin School eleven on the Civic grounds, Norwood, by the score of 18 to 0. The Boston eleven failed to show any class as the Town lads tore through their line repeatedly.

The outstanding stars were Michael Spierdowis, William Deary and Dickson. Spierdowis scored two of the goals and Carey went over for the other which gave the Norwood team their 18 points.

DE ORO FAILS IN COMEBACK STUNT

New York, Oct. 14 (Universal).—An old man, way past sixty, so old in fact that he draws a pension from the Cuban government, failed in his comeback act at billiards of the three-cushion variety. He was Alfred de Oro.

He played Willie Hoppe for a $500 purse, which is hardly cigarette money to either, but anyway Hoppe doesn't smoke.

They played in the afternoon and Hoppe won by the score of 50 to 31. In the evening Hoppe won again, 50 to 38, but that isn't the main story.

HOPPE UNBEATABLE.

As the two white balls kissed the red merrily as they spun around the table at angles that would make Euclid blush with envy, an old man was trying to wield a cue.

De Oro, the oldest man in sports competition, was trying to beat a man who is at the heighth of his career.

Hoppe has been champion at balkline billiards so long that he is known as the Lillian Russell of the Green Cloth. But Hoppe is only a little past thirty and is demonstrating for the first time this Winter that he is adroit in any game in which a cue is the main weapon.

De Oro couldn't play with his old time skill. The former champion of the world at three-cushions and pocket billiards, returning to active competition after a lay-off for several years, was a tragic figure as time and again he fell down on easy shots, his arm shaking like a leaf as he attempted to execute a difficult round-the-table shot or an occasional masse.

BROADWAY SAD.

The score of 100 to 69 for the entire day's play doesn't tell the story.

The story is of an old man trying to perform the impossible against a man who is far his superior.

He was a pathetic sight in his heavily spectacled eyes and long green visor.

No wonder all Broadway came to the smoke-filled hall and left with saddened hearts.

And to make matters worse, De Oro is left-handed.

Southpaws in sport are usually peculiar folks. But this is the first time one ever tried to come back to fame when he was more than sixty years old.

Lynn Upsets Haverhill

Haverhill, Oct. 14.—Haverhill High suffered its second defeat of the season when Lynn Classical scored a 7 to 0 triumph. It was the first time since 1913 that Haverhill has been defeated on its home field. Lynn forwards passed the locals to death.

AT PHILADELPHIA — Harry Greb, Pittsburgh, and Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia, drew, 10 rounds.

AT BALTIMORE—Billy Drakka, lightweight, Germany, won decision over Young Mickey, East Baltimore, six rounds Jimmy Goodrich, Buffalo, won 12-round decision over Mickey Papner, Baltimore.

MINNESOTA TO MAKE STRONG BID FOR FOOTBALL FAME

University of Minnesota, Oct. 14.—Who will make Minnesota football history in 1924? What names will emerge from the host of individuals in original lineups and substitutions that will take their places alongside those of Bert Baston, Johnnie McGovern, Arnold Oss and Earl Martineau?

It is an interesting fact that even the closest followers of Minnesota football have as little knowledge of the relative existence among the men who will carry the ball as they had in the middle of September. Spaulding has maintained his method of giving everyone a chance and allowing no one to "grandstand," and has kept it up so successfully that one lineup seems as likely to be used in the big games as another. No one knows what man will mount the ladder of gridiron glory in the conference games.

Carl Lidberg of Red Wing seems the only backfield player who has a position assured him. Minnesota has no less than four quarterbacks, Graham, Foote, Guzy and Mason. Which of these names is to be written large? The fans are asking. With Peplaw and Schulte, halfbacks, there are Gordon, a sophomore find from North High School, Minneapolis; Ascher, Peterson and Van Duzee? These are five keen players, but which will have the real edge remains to be proved.

There is no questioning the fact that this situation adds spice and suspense to Minnesota's football outlook. Some of these men are stars undoubtedly. But which? That is still an unanswered question.

John Delaney Signs to Meet McCarthy

The Suffolk A. A. will conduct an all-star boxing show at the Arena a week from tonight. Matchmaker Tom Goodwin achieved one of the greatest accomplishments of his career when he succeeded in matching Jack Delaney of Bridgeport and Pat McCartny of Roxbury for the chief event of ten rounds.

Eddie Devine and Andy Martin, rival South End bantams, will finally get together and settle the mooted question of superiority. Natural rivals since they deserted the amateur ranks and forging to the front with gigantic strides, these two youngsters, Devine, a southpaw and a puncher, and Martin a fast clever boxer, have nearly disrupted the section of the city in which both reside.

And "Scoops" White of Worcester and Bob Lowrie, the "Fighting Scotchman," whose melee was interrupted a couple of weeks ago by the referee in the opening round, will be given another chance to prove which is the better man. Lowrie's eagerness to get close to the swift-hitting "Scoops" caused his disqualification, much to the dissatisfaction of the spectators, who realized that a brilliant battle was in the making. In addition to those three contests, a fourth ten-rounder is being arranged.

But it is the Delaney-McCarthy fracas that stands out. Delaney, the only man that ever knocked out Paul Berlenbach and Frank Moody, is distinctly a middleweight champion contender.

LERMOND WINS 3-MILER; DE MAR FINISHES THIRD

The City of Boston Public Celebration committee held their annual Columbus Day sport program on Boston Common. The biggest and most thrilling event on the athletic meet was the three-mile run with about ten starters.

George Lermond, the crack middle distance runner of Boston College, won the event in a slashing finish from W. Badwin of the Boston A. A. who finished second and Clarence DeMar, World's chompion Marathon runner, finished third.

The women folks showed plenty of class in their events, while a large gathering of holiday fans looked on.

RICKARD WILL STAGE FULTON-FIRPO BOUT

New York, Oct. 14.—Tex Rickard declared today that he planned to go through with the proposed Fulton-Firpo bout at Madison Square Garden on November 7 in spite of Fulton's recent defeat at the hands of Martin Burke.

"I think big men like this pair would put up a remarkable bout," Rickard said. "In any case, I mean to try my idea out."

Everett Blanks Newton

Everett High triumphed over Newton High, 6 to 0, at the high school field. In the second period Peterson, Everett tackle blocked a punt. O'Hara recovered the oval and romped over the Newton goal line. Harrington missed the try for the additional point.

Taramaschi Ready for Hard Tussle

Angelo Taramaschi, Italian wrestling champion, is in good shape for his finish fight with Charlie Krieger, the German husky, at the Grand Opera House on Thursday night. Angelo has been training this Fall as never before. He has taken on weight until he now tips the beam at about 212, and this added weight coupled with his inside knowledge of the game, makes him an even match for the best of the topnotchers. In meeting Krieger he is tackling a tough bird and one that will give him a busy evening.

Angelo aims to force Stanley Stasiak into a match to a positive finish. For almost a year the men have been bitter rivals for local mat honors and their two-hour draw at Revere last Summer only made things hotter.

On the same card Stasiak is pitted against Frank Bruno, the Ukranian giant. Bruno weighs 230 pounds, stands over six feet and being young and able to go the route will give Stasiak a lot of trouble if he escapes defeat.

Still another bout on the card Thursday night is the appearance of Jack Albright. He is pitted against Harrte Delamano, the Italian Rough House mat artist.

B. C. HIGH AND DORCHESTER WIN ON "GRID" AT FENWAY

The Boston College High eleven defeated the strong Boston English football team in one of the twin gridiron contests booked at Fenway Park by the score of 7 to 0, while the Dorchester lads won their game against the Mechanic Arts High lads 12 to 0 in the other game.

WALTER JOHNSON AND DEMPSEY MAY BECOME PARTNERS

MAY BUY BALL CLUB TOGETHER

By GENE FOWLER

New York, Oct. 14 (Universal).—A novel partnership in sports is on the fire. It would bring together Walter Johnson, World Series hero, and Jack Dempsey, champion heavyweight. It was broadly intimated today by persons close to the two aces that they are dickering for purchase of the Salt Lake City Club of the Pacific Coast League.

When the Washington Club was in New York for the series, Johnson had a room in the Alamac near that of the champion. That the two stars formed a mutual admiration society is known. Dempsey has two baseball heroes, Ruth and Johnson. Johnson also has two pugilistic heroes — but both of them are Dempsey.

GOOD DRAWING CARDS.

The Salt Lake City franchise, it is said, would not cost a fortune. With two such popular figures as Dempsey and Johnson owning it, it is presumable that the club would draw comparatively great crowds.

Dempsey's many business interests on the coast would find him in a position to lean toward purchase of the Salt Lake Club. He has a coal business in Utah. He has apartment houses and hotel ventures in Los [illegible] California.

Johnson wants to be near his home, Geno, Nevada. That he is tired of hop-scotching about the big league circuit, throwing his classic arm out of joint, is no secret.

Of course, Johnson's Coast League intentions depend largely on what owner Clark Griffith of the Washington club does about resigning Walter. The latter's contract has expired. If he asks for an unconditional release, he will get it.

RAINY DAY NEARS.

In considering his future, Johnson bears in mind the loyalty of Washington fans to him during his eighteen brilliant years with that club. It is sure that Washington baseball supporters would continue to crowd the lot to see Walter for the rest of his life. Even if he had to be trundled to the box in a wheel chair and given an inhale of oxygen before each pitch, those Washingtonians would have nothing but bravos for Walter.

Still Walter feels he is entitled to plan for his athletic old age. He will never consent to be shifted to the minors as a player. Johnson is comfortably situated in regard to bank biscuits.

As a player-manager-owner, Walter could suit himself about going to the firing line.

Saints Win Title

St. Paul, Oct. 14 (Universal)—The St. Paul American Association club won the Junior World Series championship here by defeating the Baltimore Orioles of the International League in the final and decisive game, 6 to 3. Ten games were necessary to decide the winner, one played in Baltimore being a tie.

PURDUE SQUAD IN STRENUOUS TRAINING

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 14.—With a couple of injured regulars still on the sidelines, but improving rapidly, Coach Jimmy Phelan's Purdue varsity football squad swings into action today for an intensive drill in preparation for a game that looms big on the Boilermaker horizon, with Northwestern next Saturday. Pillman, an end, and Don Munroe, fullback, are the two members of Phelan's squad who did not don suits all last week. Both were hurt in the Ohio game. Wellman got back in a suit toward the end of the week, while Munroe and Pillman are hopeful of returning to the squad by Tuesday.

Purdue scouts have brought back laudatory reports on the Northwestern team this year, and they are convinced that the Purple is at least three times as strong as it was last year, when, after a hectic scrap, the Boilermakers came out on top, 6 to 3.

STAN HARRIS TO SELL BONDS DURING WINTER

Washington, Oct. 14.—Manager Stanley Harris of the world's champion Washington Senators joined the ranks of business men today. He signed a contract with Redmond & Co., investment banking house.

He will begin his new work after a short hunting trip, and continue until he takes his major league title holders to Tampa next Spring, to begin training for the 1925 campaign. His headquarters will be in Washington.

HELEN JACOBS, TENNIS STAR, IS VERSATILE ATHLETE

Berkeley, Cal., Oct. 14.—Helen Jacobs, Berkeley's winner of the national junior girls' championship and candidate to succeed Helen Wills, the city's national and Olympic woman title holder, is a true daughter of the West.

Born in Globe, Ariz., on August 6, 1908, Helen spent her entire 16 years in a land where environment plays a heavy part in creating athletes. As soon as she was old enough to show her preferences, Miss Jacobs neglected her dolls and playhouses, for the more strenuous activities that interested the boys of her neighborhood. Throughout her short, but energetic life, she has inclined toward athletics and boys' sports.

When she was four years old, Roland S. Jacobs, her father, moved his family to an isolated mining camp, 75 miles out in the wastelands from Winnemucca, Nev., and there again out-of-door environment had a big share in shaping her destiny.

After two years in Nevada the Jacobs family moved to San Francisco, and Helen became locally prominent as a swimmer. She also was showing much promise as a musician, but when it came to a point where she must forsake either the piano or the swimming pool, the latter won, hands down.

PLAYS BASEBALL

Baseball was another early hobby with the girl and soon after her arrival at San Francisco she became the captain and star pitcher of the boys' neighborhood sandlot nine.

When she was twelve years old Miss Jacobs first started to dabble in tennis. San Francisco abounds with public courts and it was at Lafayette square, and later on the Spring Valley playground that Miss Jacobs took up the game destined to make her a national figure.

Her first introduction to tournament play was due to the efforts of Mrs. Blanche K. Ashbaugh, newspaper sports writer and expert critic of tennis. Mrs. Ashbaugh was a neighbor of the Jacobs family and the young girl's athletic possibilities soon came to her attention.

After many sessions as her coach, Mrs. Ashbaugh entered her protege in the 1922 annual tournament of the Golden Gate Tennis Club, where the girl won her first trophy cup, emblematic of the championship of her division.

Other minor tournaments followed, but it was not until June, 1923, that Miss Jacobs made much of a figure in tennis. In that month she won the California State tennis title for girls under sixteen, and the Helen Wills Trophy Cup.

It was her victory in the 1923 State tournament that directed Miss Jacobs' tennis career along identical lines with the earlier career of the other Helen. Doctor C. A. Wills, the champion's father, and William C. (Pop) Fuller, Miss Wills' coach and advisor, recognized the great possibilities in the younger Helen, and induced her father to move to Berkeley, where his daughter could come under the direct supervision of Pop Fuller. Here she took advantage of the facilities available at the Berkeley Tennis Club, the "home of the champions."

When she returns to Berkeley Miss Jacobs will enter her third or "junior" year at the Berkeley High School. Just as her "idol," Miss Wills, has done, Miss Jacobs plans to enter the University of California upon graduation from her preparatory courses.

SARAZEN GOES TO LAUREL MEETING

Latonia, Ky., Oct. 14.—Sarazen, victor in Saturday's international horse race over Epinard, French champion, has been shipped to Laurel. [illegible]

Epinard remained at Latonia pending a conference between his trainer Eug[illegible] and owner Pierre Wertheimer as to whether to send him to Laurel or New York.

The Latonia meeting terminates next Saturday with the Latonia championship stakes as the feature. That event, richest of the Autumn season for three-year-olds exclusively, is decided over a distance of one mile and three quarters, and with its $15,000 added is worth approximately $25,000 to the winner.

Besides Mad Play, which finished third to Sarazen and Epinard in the International, and Chilhowee, heartbreaking pacemaker for three-quarters of a mile in that event, Bob Tail, Gra[illegible] probably Aga Khan and Priscilla Ruley will accept issue in this [illegible]. The [illegible] ran one two in the Pierrepont Handicap at Jamaica on Saturday.

TED MOORE ACCUSED OF STRIKING WOMAN

New York, Oct. 14.—Ted Moore, English middleweight boxer, for whose arrest a warrant was obtained by Mrs. Josephine Ward of Brooklyn on charges of assault, appeared [illegible] for hearing Wednesday.

The woman said the pugilist struck her several times with his fists on June 7, last, breaking a rib and inflicting other injuries that necessitated a doctor's attendance. Moore denied [illegible] the complainant [illegible] received $500 fro[illegible] for a promise tha[illegible] no effort to stop [illegible] Greb here last Summer.

BIG CROWD TO SEE TIGERS AND NAVY

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 14.—With the Navy game on Saturday, Coach Roper has been working his men hard to get them in shape for the Midshipmen. Present indications point to the largest crowd ever assembled in Princeton for an early game.

The early games have given the coaches a good line on the men and the material seems slightly better than average. For the first time in several seasons there is a wealth of linemen. Every position has at least four men who are so closely matched that it is an even bet as to who will start against the Middies.

The backfield seems to be settled. The husky, rangy Gibson back on the offense, is putting up a great game. Two sophomores, Jake Slagle and Charlie Weeks, have been playing sensational football so far, and if all goes well they will undoubtedly start against the Navy. The fourth member of the backfield is Charlie Caldwell, a veteran from the "team of destiny."

Lawrence Trips Commerce

Lawrence, Oct. 14.—Using the forward pass with great success and taking advantage of misplays, Lawrence High defeated Boston High School of Commerce 31 to 6. Commerce's only score came in the third period when Tommy Graney fumbled a punt, Corey scooping up the ball on Lawrence's 40-yard line and rushing it across.

Maloney was performing in the ranks of the amateurs last [illegible]. He then heard the jingle of gold and cast his lot with the money [illegible]. His ponderous right hand punch, aggressiveness and determination have enabled him to bowl over a flock of opposition.

FATE PLAYED MAJOR PART IN WASHINGTON VICTORY

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1924, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

New York, Oct. 14.—Do you believe in fate in sport? Consider the result of the World's Series of 1924, and the manner of that result.

A ball took a peculiar bound over Lindstrom's head, enabling Washington to tie the score. You would have wagered that such a bound [illegible] again in a baseball [illegible] years.

In the twelfth inning another ball [illegible] Lindstrom's head in almost identical [illegible] the same manner as the first, giving Washington the victory.

What caused these bounds?

A bit of hard ground near third base, perhaps. It may have been no larger than a twenty-five [illegible] piece. No ball struck there during the season or the Washington groundkeeper would have meticulously removed it.

Do you believe that fate, seeking a way of giving Washington the victory, twice directed the ball to that bit of hard ground?

THE New York Giants, no doubt [illegible] a fate [illegible]

Those two [illegible] each member [illegible] $1,500.

A ball hit at Aaron Ward in [illegible] struck a hard piece of ground in front of [illegible] head in much the same manner as the balls bounded over Lindstrom's head, giving the Giants the victory that year.

That was [illegible] working in favor of the G[illegible] the Yankees.

NO one who saw the demonstration in Washington Fri[illegible]

"The W[illegible] tremendous [illegible] Washington. It was a treme[illegible] ball.

Had New York won the [illegible] would have been [illegible] few minutes then [illegible]. The big town has become [illegible] things. Washington appreciated its new [illegible].

The writer has seen many demonstrations, many riots of joy. He saw Paris celebrating the Armistice. He has been in Boston time and again the night of Harvard football victory; has seen New Haven feverish with a Yale triumph.

He has watched New Orleans rollicking through its Mardi Gras, has seen any number of political celebrations, of public rejoicings over notable events. None of them approached Washington's celebration of its baseball victory.

The thing went on all night. Joy never let down for a moment until the physical bodies were completely exhausted.

The people tramped the streets hour after hour, laughing and shouting and tooting horns. They cheered and cheered until one marvelled at the vitality of the human voice.

CLARK GRIFFITH, president of the Washington Club, the old "Silver Fox" of baseball, stood on the steps of the Hotel Willard and ladies kissed him jovially. The victorious players were pulled and hauled wherever they appeared.

The President of the United States went home from the game rejoicing and issued a long public statement about it, more in the spirit of a citizen of Washington than as Chief of the Nation.

It was wonderful. The writer is glad he lived to see it. [illegible] Bill Dineen, the bu[illegible] American League official who worked in the series, enjoyed himself hugely wandering about town and inquiring naively of excited citizens:

"Who won the ball game?"

Some were so utterly appalled at this ignorance they were disposed to call the police and have him taken [illegible]. Others seemed to feel a man [illegible]

Th[illegible] New York [illegible]

WHO was the real hero of the series?

The writer is inclined to assign the honor to Stanley Harris, manager of the Washington club.

His reason is this.

Harris not only played great ball in the field and at bat [illegible] the opportunity to offset those mistakes.

Harris may not be the greatest individual player in the game, but the writer thinks he easily carried off the laurels of the series.

BRIEF TIME IS LEFT IN WHICH TO REGISTER

Dead Line for City Voters Is Put at 10 Tomorrow Night

Boston men and women who are not registered on the voting lists by 10 o'clock tomorrow night cannot vote at the Presidential election next month.

In all the cities in Massachusetts the registration books close at that hour. It is impossible to get on the lists after this time. In the towns and country districts ten more days remain in which to be registered.

While any voter may register at City Hall Annex they can, if they prefer, register in their own home wards.

A registration booth is opened in every one of the twenty-six wards throughout the city for the convenience of new voters. These ward registration offices will be opened today and tomorrow, from 2 o'clock in the afternoon until 10 o'clock at night.

For the convenience of residents in precinct one and two of Ward 24 an additional registration office has been opened in Minton Hall, Forest Hills. In Ward 14, Roxbury, there are also two registration booths, one in the Jefferson School on Heath street and the other in the Martin School, Huntington avenue and Worthington streets.

Mr Burke made it clear that 10 o'clock tomorrow night is the extreme limit for registration. Those waiting in line at that hour will not be registered. The late Judge De Courcey of the Supreme Court ruled that the law is exact on that point.

Boston Society Attends Big Horse Show

HELPED TO MAKE BIG FAIR A SUCCESS

Mrs. Kennard Winsor (at left), who assisted at the pottery booth, and Mrs. I. Tucker Burr, who was in charge of the quick lunch counter, both did their share in making Uncle Sam's Market Place the tremendous success it was.

By BETTY ALDEN.

HORSE SHOW or "horse-shoe?" The annual question, that caused certain members of society to pucker its brows and puzzle over the act of deciding.

For years there was very little deciding to do. If you found the great "diamond" horseshoe of the Metropolitan Opera House a place of a thousand fascinations, you went there and listened while golden voices poured out the [illegible] tales of love and tragedy [illegible] were drinking in this feast of melody, your eyes were resting upon sartorial splendor all about you.

If you were mad about horses and felt more at home in riding togs than any other sort of apparel, you didn't hesitate to attend the National Horse Show.

But if, on the other hand, you enjoyed horse shows and "horse-shoes" both, then the choice had to be made.

For years the staging of the National Horse Show has been coincidental with the opening of the Metropolitan Opera. This year, however, the managers of the equine event have purposely arranged it earlier than usual and avoided the just-a-bit-too-keen competition offered by the "show" at the Metropolitan.

So this year no one has to make the disturbing decision.

SEVERAL BOSTON FOLK have gone over to Manhattan for the thirty-ninth annual National Horse Show being held this week in the Squadron A Armory at Park avenue and Ninety-Fourth street.

There are more than 1,000 entrants, among them Mrs. Joseph S. Sylvester (Mary Lyman) of Boston. The Sylvesters, whose town house is at No. 4 Gloucester street, have a country place named "The Hickories" at Hanover.

The Armory has been decorated for the occasion in blue and gold, and a reproduction of historic Mount Vernon, home of Washington, has been built at one side of the arena. Luncheon and tea are being served on the veranda each day.

Among the patronesses for the Mount Vernon tea room—the proceeds will go to the Dugout—is Mrs. Vernon Carleton Brown, who has just returned to the Gotham residence after a long season at the family's summer place at Manchester-by-the-Sea. Mr. and Mrs. Brown were hosts at several delightful affairs during the summer at "The Rocks," as their North Shore place is called.

Horse-devoted "Eleo" Sears seldom misses this equine classic, and she will probably take in at least a part of the show before it closes on Saturday.

By that time Gotham's fashionables will have returned to the city and opened their town residences, even though they later return to country homes or flit away to this or that popular Autumn resort.

A goodly-sized Boston contingent always goes over to Gotham for the Metropolitan's opening, which, they say, promises to be more brilliant than ever this season.

THIS WOMAN'S MARVELLOUS RECOVERY

All Due to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Truman, Minn.—"I was badly rundown and had pains in my side and back; sometimes I couldn't hardly move around in bed. My husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after taking it I was so much better I could do all my work again. I do my housework, have a garden, raise chickens, and in harvest time I worked in the field and helped pick corn. Sometimes I do chores and milk. I took the Vegetable Compound before and after my four-months-old baby was born, and it has always helped me wonderfully. I believe there is no better medicine made for women, and I hope every woman will give it a fair trial."—Mrs. AUGUST R. WIEDERHOFT, R. No. 2, Box 84, Truman, Minnesota.

NORA LEE A Story of Flaming Youth

HOW THE STORY STARTS

Margaret Meadows married Will Lee at seventeen His dissolute habits soon made her miserable, but she ndured him for three years. The night he raised his hand to his two-year-old child in a drunken rage she slipped from his home with her baby. She never saw him again. Margaret supported her daughter by teaching school in several villages, finally settling in Fairdale, where she met Andrew and they fell in love. But he was tied to an invalid wife and Margaret refused to let him leave her. Then she took a school in a tiny mountain town, where she fought despair. Andrew wrote every month.

NOW CONTINUE THE STORY.

For on those nights they walked and walked. Sometimes Margaret didn't answer when Nora Lee spoke. And sometimes she stopped suddenly, pressing her hands hard, like this, against her heart.

So once Nora Lee said, "Marmee." Very loud: "Marmee, does Andrew know how we are up here?"

"Of course."

"I mean how awful sad we are."

"We aren't sad."

"Oh, we are. Maybe you don't know it, but sometimes I come pretty near to dying."

"Poor child—my poor little girl—"

"Just the same, I do. Why doesn't Andrew come up and get us? He could, all right—"

"No—he can not. This is our home. We must grow to love it."

"You mean we must stay here for ever?"

"Oh, no, I may get another school. I have written."

His Letters Fail

But the Summer's parched heat wrapped about them again. Then there was the incisive chill of the second Winter. So two years passed.

As the third Autumn was fading a tragic and fateful thing happened. The letters from Fairdale ceased.

She never guessed that Andrew's love was passing. Her own grew so terribly in all this aloneness. And she never dreamed that this love of his had become the breath and spirit of her being.

She could not live without it. When two months passed and there were no answers to her letters, a dry fire ate the life from her veins.

Nora Lee said gravely "Marmee—Andrew has forgotten us."

She could not face the child. After a long while she answered "No. He has only gone away, perhaps ..."

"But you don't know, do you?"

"No—I don't know—"

For the first time in her life Nora Lee saw her mother's lips shaking, saw the white smile of anguish fall. She turned quickly — frightened ready to cry . . . That Andrew! Treating them so—oh, it was awful—

That night she stole off to her room and wrote a letter. She said "Dear Andrew:

"I shouldn't do this, but the least you might do is to write. We're so awful lonesome up here. I'm sure you don't ever guess how sad we are. Now please write, because everyone else nearly has forgotten us. And mamma is getting thin. I don't know what will happen. I send you my love, as ever,

"NORA LEE."

She went herself to the Lundstrom farm, where their mail was left, and stuck this note in the box.

Nora Lee was past 12 now—tall and ungainly. Sometimes Margaret put her arms around the young girl with an infinite pity—poor, homely child. Other times she watched the changing face with wonder, thrilled by the deep, joyous blue of the child's eyes, the satiny gold of her skin.

Nora Lee's mind was changing, too. It was filled with [illegible] impulse. It was feverish with [illegible]

The weeks she waited [illegible] answer to her letter she [illegible] sleep. When Margaret seemed [illegible] less she thought with panic "Maybe he won't answer—then maybe she'll d'e——"

Hope Deferred

Saturday the mail was due. When Margaret saw her putting on her coat she said: "Where are you going?"

"For letters."

Margaret's lips were white. Two dark red spots flamed on her cheeks. "Why are you going, Nora Lee—there won't be any."

"I think so. Cissy Parsons owes me letters ever so long. Hurry."

"[illegible] I'll wait . . ."

Nora Lee ran most of the mile to the Lundstrom farm. There was no letters from Cissy. But there were three big square envelopes. She stuck them in her pocket, tears of rapture blinding her.

Her feet were quick. Now she drove them relentlessly. Andrew—oh, she always loved him, anyhow—She fancied the gladness in her mother's eyes . . . and ran yet harder. . . .

Half way home a wind came up in a sudden flutter. Before she could believe it, snow, airy and delicate, was falling. . . . Then she saw some one moving slowly in the distance—moving toward her. It was Margaret. . . .

All at once Margaret stopped. She went down as though her knees gave way. Nora Lee cried out. She held the letters up. Margaret was too far away to hear.

She was lying flat [illegible] the ground [illegible] snow falling on her face when Nora Lee reached her.

"Look—marmee [illegible] from Andrew . . ."

The child knelt on the ground [illegible] wiped her mother's face. The eyes were closed. She did not stir. She did not hear.

The Fated Summons

Margaret's face was white as the snow. Only a faint line of pink showed where the warm perfect lips were parted. But she looked so beautiful with her loose hair falling on her forehead.

Nora Lee stared a moment with the letters clenched in her hand. Then she leaned down with a frightened sob pressing her lips to her mother's ear. "Mamma, mamma [illegible]—oh what's the matter. Get up, please! Open your eyes. Can't you hear?"

She shook her and showed the letters. "Look — won't you, please! Letters, marmee—Andrew wrote all these."

Margaret didn't stir. Nora Lee rubbed her hands wildly. She said soft, frantic things. "Marmee, oh my dear marmee," and tried again and again to lift Margaret in her arms. She couldn't do it. The snow

Then she began to cry. She [illegible] and lay down [illegible] snow, pressed her cheek to Margaret's. Oh, her mother was [illegible] mother. Well, she would die too. Then she knew that must be her mother's breath.

Nora Saves Margaret

She jumped to her feet, shaking the snow away, pulling with all her strength on Margaret's arms. She begged: "Marmee, you hear me! I know you do. Can't you get up? Try—oh, please, get up! I don't know what to do. I don't know at all!"

Margaret's eyelids fluttered.

Nora Lee took off her coat and made a pillow of it. She put it under Margaret's head. She thought she should run back to the farm and they would come and lift her mother up. Yet she was afraid to leave her lying here like this. The snow might cover her—it might hide her forever in this cold, lonely silence.

She stared at the white drifting snow petals. If they would only stop—if God would only let them stop—for just a little while . . .

Suddenly they seemed to whirl away in a sharp, blue wind. So she ran and ran, her small feet flying and slipping. When she reached Matty Lundstrom's kitchen, her

"You'll never have to unless you send me away [illegible] not at all sure I'd go," smiled Ralph. "Now we'd better be running along."

We found Irma and Mabel waiting together in the living room [illegible] tales of [illegible] table for me.

Her [illegible] spoke. Suddenly I realized that Peter Stanley had spent the day at Park Manor giving his services where it was most needed. He had no time to [illegible] for Irma.

"The flowers are lovely," I said [illegible] "Has [illegible] made this easier for you two girls to spend your day among them?"

"Irma has [illegible]" answered Mabel quietly. "I'm afraid I've only made [illegible] sitting for her. Are you going to [illegible] us all up a bit, Ralph?"

"That's what I'm here for," said quietly.

"Tom wanted to come [illegible]" suggested Irma [illegible] But Mabel cut in so simply [illegible] was not aggressive or offensive.

"The only man I [illegible] around the place this evening is Ralph. You're the only one I'd would want here."

"Oh, he might think it friendly of Peter Stanley to come," added Irma casually. "Now, I'll go [illegible] tell the maids you're home, and and we'll want dinner [illegible] minutes. Is that right?"

"Yes, please. Do that," I said blankly.

But my mind was busy with the realization that Irma was [illegible] at Peter's absence. I'd have [illegible] great deal to know whether she was hurt or merely annoyed. For a moment I stood there awkwardly. Then I said hastily:

"I [illegible] leave you to entertain Ralph, Mabel, while I go wash up a bit for dinner. Is the [illegible] here?"

MEDBURY SAYS---

By John P. Medbury

SINCE a well known doctor discovered that cheap lip-sticks imperil life, kissing has decreased 50 per cent.

IF second class paint will spoil a barn, think what it will do to your sweetheart's cheeks?

OF course there isn't any immediate danger. Nobody ever heard of a man kissing a girl and then rushing to the emergency hospital.

NINE out of ten men who have kissed a girl have never had to call the ambulance.

STILL, one man did need an ambulance the other evening, but he didn't call it himself. The girl's husband did.

ONE dame had so much rouge on her cheeks that her sweetheart spent three hours every evening with a blow torch burning it off.

ANOTHER girl has had the same coat of paint on her lips for two years.

THIS was because she let her lips dry and then varnished them.

ALL she had to do was dust them every morning with furniture polish.

ANOTHER woman painted her lips three years ago and they look as good as new.

KISSING a girl with painted lips may be dangerous, but the man who don't believe in microbes are having all the fun.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Dr. F. X. Mahoney

DO you see the colors?

Do you know them when you do see them?

Both these questions are based upon interesting scientific facts and are really of great importance to you.

Dr. Mahoney.

Color is the impression made upon your sense of vision by various objects. This occurs because every object influences what we call "light" by causing it to move in waves just as a pebble thrown into a still pond causes the water to move in circling waves.

Now it happens that the eyes of some people are so constituted that they do not perceive certain of these wave lengths, and some cannot perceive any of the wave lengths.

This is the condition known as color blindness and, as you can see from what I have said, it may be either partial or complete.

Color-blind people have probably been in the world through the millions of years since people were evolved, but it has not been many decades since the condition was actually discovered and explained by the great scientist Helmholz.

So important is this whole question that the railroads have their employes carefully examined for color sense.

If you are a motorist would you not feel more comfortable if you had your own power of color perception determined by actual examination?

If you are not a motorist but just one of the millions who sometimes ride in taxis or other automobiles, you would probably feel more comfortable if you knew tthat not only your chauffeur but the drivers of all the other cars had had their color perception determined by a competent physician.

If locomotive drivers must have their vision tested, how equally important that automobile drivers shall be subjected to the same regulations. In other words, and in view of the fact that many motor accidents are now known to occur from color blindness, has not the time arrived when every applicant for a license to drive a car shall first present a certificate of normal vision?

Many who are thought to be color blind are only color ignorant. They simply have not learned the colors.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

What should I do to purify my blood? How much should a boy weigh who is 14 years of age? D. P. S.

You should weigh about 120 pounds. You would need to have a physical examination to determine the best means of purifying your blood.

Am a young girl of 17 years, height 5 ft. 5 in., weight 130 pounds. My legs are very stout. How can I reduce them. M. M., Roxbury.

Would suggest that you take exercises designed to reduce the ankles and legs, followed by massage.

and the vote on the eighteenth day, which enabled La Follette to hold onto second place, came in large measure from the crowd which watched the Fordham-Boston College football game, at Braves Field.

These are the Massachusetts figures, up to date:

Total vote	14,332
Coolidge	6,346
La Follette	4,093
Davis	4,093
Coolidge over La Follette	2,253
La Follette over Davis	200
Both combined top Coolidge by	1,640
Shift from Cox to Coolidge	470
Harding to Davis	743
Democrats for La Follette	1,453
Republicans for La Follette	1,566
Others for La Follette	1,074

A poll of the players of the "Stepping Stones" company, at the Colonial Theatre, revealed the "original Dawes man" in no less a personage than Fred Stone.

"I am glad to vote in the straw ballot being taken by the Hearst newspapers," Mr. Stone said, "and I am not particularly keen about keeping my preference a secret. In fact, I think this a good time for folks to stand up and be counted.

"The records should show, if they do not, that as early as last April I wrote to Melville E. Stone, of the Associated Press, urging him to start something in favor of General Charles G. Dawes for second place on the Republican ticket."

That everybody in the "Stepping Stones" company is at liberty to think and vote the way she or he likes was shown by the result of the poll:

Coolidge, 55; La Follette, 14; Davis, 9.

These theatre figures do not appear in the table because, unfortunately, the young people of the company failed to mark the ballots in such a way as to show how they voted four years ago. The young woman who polled them is certain that the great majority are about to vote for the first time, but for the purposes of a useful straw vote the ballots should give these necessary details.

While La Follette topped the list at the Braves Field football game his rivals were not without considerable support there, and President Coolidge came out of the engagement with an additional 65 votes.

In today's table, the votes credited to Beacon street and Commonwealth avenue represent efforts to poll the crowds watching Columbus Day parades. The crowd in Beacon street, the result showed, was very much a Coolidge crowd.

The election will be held three weeks from today. You will have no part in it unless your name is on the voting list. If you have not registered, you must do so before Thursday. Tomorrow will be your last chance.

Coolidge Holds Lead in Bangor District

Bangor, Me., Oct. 14.—In the Bangor district today the vote reported by the Bangor Commercial, in association with the Boston American, was as follows:

Coolidge	50
Davis	20
La Follette	19

The total vote in this part of Maine up to date is: Coolidge 440, Davis 103, La Follette 105. The details are set forth in the accompanying table.

Rural New Hampshire Cool to La Follette

Laconia, N. H., Oct. 14.—A third day's poll in this city, in the course of which 147 voters declared themselves, strengthens the belief that in New Hampshire the La Follette appeal has not penetrated the rural sections but is confined, in the main, to the larger cities.

This is not to classify Laconia, only a few weeks ago the centre of a Summer population of 150,000, as a rural community. At this point, however, one is at least on the edge of the Central New Hampshire farming country, and many of these votes were taken at a Grange fair:

Coolidge	91
Davis	42
La Follette	14
Shift from Cox to Coolidge	3
Harding to Davis	3
Democrats for La Follette	6
Republicans for La Follette	5
Others for La Follette	3

The La Follette campaign in New Hampshire is merely now assuming shape. John L. Barry of Manchester, president of the New Hampshire State branch, American Federation of Labor, has been placed in charge. Ten days from now the La Follette movement in this section may be more formidable.

Davis Holds Second Place in Vermont Poll

St. Albans, Vt., Oct. 14.—Polls taken by a Boston American reporter in St. Johnsbury and in this central Vermont Railroad city indicate that in northern Vermont Senator La Follette will not give John W. Davis much of a battle for second place in the standing.

There is, of course, no question about Vermont's first choice. This was the vote in St. Albans:

Coolige	106
Davis	41
La Follette	30
Shift from Cox to Coolidge	20
From Harding to Davis	8
From Cox to La Follette	10
Others for La Follette	12

In St. Johnsbury, considerably agitated by the recent announcement that the Boston & Maine Railroad had surrendered its lease of the St. Johnsbury & Lake Champlain R. R., there appeared to be even less support for the Third Party ticket. In that town the vote was:

Coolidge	48
Davis	54
La Follette	12
Shift from Cox to Coolidge	3
From Harding to Davis	9
Democrats for La Follette	2
Republicans for La Follette	5
Others for La Follette	5

The term "others," as has been explained, includes first voters, others who did not vote four years ago and persons who in 1920 cast their ballots for one of the minor candidates.

DAVIS ATTACKS INDICTMENT OF WHEELER

Green Castle, Ind., Oct. 14.—John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for President, was to begin his drive for votes in Illinois today.

He remained here over night after addressing a crowd of 5,000 in Court House square at La Fayette and a second and larger gathering here.

Davis again came to the defense of the Progressive ticket declaring that Wheeler's indictment was as black a dastardly crime as could have been committed by any man. The Coolidge attack on La Follette, he continued, was simply a smoke screen designed to divert the attention of the country from the real issues of the campaign.

Davis said that four major problems faced the people of the United States in the forthcoming elections. They are. Tax reduction, honesty in government, agricultural distress and America's part in plans for world peace.

He promised to make a substantial decrease in the tax burden if he is elected, both by retiring direct taxes and lowering the tariff, which he declared, is costing the American people of three millions of dollars annually.

G.O.P. ELECTION PURCHASE PLOT IS CHARGED

St. Louis, Oct. 14 (A.P.).—Senator Robert M. La Follette, Independent candidate for President, arrived here today for his second campaign speech in the territory west of the Mississippi. He will speak tonight in the Coliseum, where the 1916 Democratic National Convention was held.

Annnouncement was made here in his behalf that evidence of a "new and startling character" in connection with his charge that the Republican National Committee was seeking to raise a "slush fund to buy the election in doubtful states" was in the possession of the La Follette-Wheeler forces.

It also was announced that Frank P. Walsh, Kansas City attorney, would represent the La Follette-Wheeler ticket before the Senate campaign expenditures committee at hearing in Chicago late in the week.

"FARMERS FARMED."

Mr. Walsh presided at last night's meeting in Kansas City at which Senator La Follette outlined his program for the relief of agriculture and reiterated his opposition to war. The Senator declared the farmers of the nation had been "farmed out by the government to the interests," and that the economic life of 6,000,000 American farmers is determined by a "handful of men, representing the banking, railroad and exploiting agencies owned by J. P. Morgan and the Standard Oil Company.

In answer to requests for a statement of the foreign policy he would pursue if elected President, Senator La Follette said that while he favored "uprooting the spirit of militarism from the American army and navy," he wanted it understood that he would maintain both at a strength that would afford this nation protection from any invading force.

TO TRAVEL NORTH.

Declaring the belief that no nation would ever attempt to invade the United States the Senator said he had it on high military authority that our geographical position was such that the citizens could successfully repel invaders with pitchforks.

From St. Louis, Mr. La Follette will turn northward to Des Moines, Iowa, for an address tomorrow night, then to Minneapolis for a speech Thursday night, with another scheduled for Sioux Falls, S. D., Friday night.

STOCKS REACT IN NEW YORK MARKET

Irregularly marked early dealings on the New York Stock Exchange, despite indicated heavy oversubscription of America's $110,000,000 portion of the initial German loan.

J. P. Morgan & Co. announced books have been closed on German external loan bonds, issue having been oversubscribed. Initial sale on German external 7 per cent. bonds on the exchange was $5,000 at 94⅝; later 92⅞.

Before 10 o'clock some houses were refusing to accept further orders for German bonds on account of heavy oversubscription.

Disregarding current favorable business and credit conditions, the market continued to react throughout the forenoon.

Prices in all sections of the list fell back sharply as bear operators extended their activities, perceiving that large interests were neglecting the market in their operations tq insure the success of the German loan.

Many speculative shares lost 1 to 3 points, with steel, motor, tobacco, public utility and rail issues under heavy pressure.

American Water Works declined 2⅜ points and Woolworth, Baldwin, General Electric and Lackawanna 2 points or more. Sinclair Oil preferred dipped to 75, a new 1924 low. Call money renewed at 2½ per cent.

Ventura Consolidated was up a quarter-point at 20⅛ following the extended holiday period, but everything else was easier on the openings. Boston & Albany declined from 160 to 159. Pacific Mills later added a point at 77.

GENERAL SELLING BRINGS BREAK IN COTTON FUTURES

In the post-holiday New York cotton market there was a break of 60 to 75 points, due to reports of an increasing movement in Southern states and a renewal of general selling. December sold off to 22.55.

QUOTATIONS HIGHER FOR GRAIN FUTURES

Quotations were higher for Chicago grain futures. Prices: wheat—December, 145 to 146; May 150 to 152½. Corn—December, 112 to ½; May, 114⅛ to ⅜; July, 114½ to ⅝. Oats—December, 53¾ to 54; May, 58⅛ to ⅜.

Mexican Loan

J. L. Arlitt of Houston, Tex., who is offering $50,000,000 Mexican loan, says issue is now 65 per cent. sold.

Doctor Luther, Finance Minister of Germany, has prepared, and the Reparation Commission and Owen D. Young, Agent-General for Reparation Payments, have approved, the following summary from his statement dated October 10, 1924, copies of which may be had on application to the undersigned:

THE LOAN These Bonds are part of an International Loan to be issued for the purpose of carrying into effect the Plan of the First Committee of Experts appointed by the Reparation Commission, for the double purpose of ensuring currency stability in Germany and of financing, especially, deliveries in kind during the preliminary period of economic rehabilitation. The Loan is to be issued in Great Britain, France, Italy, Switzerland, Holland, Belgium, Sweden, Germany and the United States of America, in bonds of various currencies, and for an amount estimated to be sufficient to yield in the aggregate a net sum equivalent, at current rates of exchange, to approximately 800,000,000 Gold Marks (approximately $190,400,000).

SECURITY The service of interest and amortization of the Loan is:

(1) A direct and unconditional obligation of the German Government chargeable on all the assets and revenues of that Government.

(2) A specific first charge on all payments provided for under the Dawes Plan to or for the account of the Agent-General for Reparation Payments, such charge being prior to reparation and other Treaty payments, which in turn have a specific precedence over the existing German debt.

(3) A first charge by way of collateral security on the "controlled revenues," i. e., the gross revenues of the German Government derived from the customs and from the taxes on tobacco, beer and sugar, the net revenue of the German Government from the spirits monopoly and such tax (if any) as may hereafter be similarly assigned by the German Government in accordance with the terms of the final protocol of the London Conference. The "controlled revenues" are estimated as amounting annually to not less than 1,000,000,000 Gold Marks (approximately $240,000,000). The German Government may not create any further charge upon the controlled revenues ranking prior to or equally with the charge created in favor of the bonds of the Loan.

LONDON PROTOCOL In the London Protocol, Annex IV, Article 3, the Governments of Belgium, Great Britain (with the Governments of Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India), France, Greece, Italy, Japan, Portugal, Roumania and Jugo-Slavia, agreed as follows:

"In order to secure the service of the loan of 800 million gold marks contemplated by the Experts' Plan, and in order to facilitate the issue of that loan to the public, the signatory Governments hereby declare that, in case sanctions have to be imposed in consequence of a default by Germany they will safeguard any specific securities which may be pledged to the service of the loan.

"The signatory Governments further declare that they consider the service of the loan as entitled to absolute priority as regards any resources of Germany so far as such resources may have been subjected to a general charge in favor of the said loan, and also as regards any resources that may arise as a result of the imposition of sanctions."

"The Allied Governments, desiring that this loan should be successfully raised, and contemplating that the loan will be a first lien on the security pledged thereto, will invite the Central Banks in their respective countries to use their good offices to facilitate the placing of the loan."

In connection with this resolution, and at the request of the Governments of Great Britain, France and Belgium, J. P. Morgan & Co., and their associates, have undertaken the issue of the American portion of the Loan.

THE BONDS ARE OFFERED FOR SUBSCRIPTION, SUBJECT TO THE CONDITIONS STATED BELOW, AT 92% AND ACCRUED INTEREST, TO YIELD OVER 7.70% TO MATURITY.

All subscriptions will be received subject to the issue and delivery to us of the Bonds as planned and to the approval by counsel of the relevant documents and proceedings.

Subscription books will be opened at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., at 10 o'clock A. M., Tuesday, October 14, 1924. The right is reserved to reject any and all applications, and also, in any case, to award a smaller amount than applied for.

The amounts due on allotments will be payable at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., in New York funds to their order, on or about October 30, 1924, as called for, against the delivery of Interim Receipts exchangeable for definitive Bonds when prepared and received.

Floating Supply of Steel Common Shows Increase in Quarter

The floating supply of Steel common stock increased in the three months' period ended September 30, as is usual in most periods when the stock market tendency is upward. Wall street accepts as a fact the statement "investors sell Steel common in an advancing market and buy in a declining market." During the greater part of the three months' period the stock market moved toward higher levels.

According to figures just prepared, the number of U. S. Steel common shares in brokers' hands—representing the "floating supply"—was 1,160,163 shares on September 30, amounting to 22.82 per cent. of the total outstanding issue. On June 30 Steel common in the hands of brokers numbered 1,039,725 shares, or 20.45 per cent. of the total issue, and at the end of September, 1923, brokers held, either for themselves or customers, 1,058,585 shares, or 20.83 per cent. of the total.

Investors' holdings on September 30 aggregated 3,922,862 shares of the common, representing 77.18 per cent. of the total issue, against 4,042,300 shares, or 79.55 per cent. of the issue, on June 30, and 4,024,440 shares, or 79.17 per cent. of the total, as of September 29, 1923.

Brokers' holdings in New York State at the end of the month were 1,005,359 shares, or 19.71 per cent. of the entire issue, compared with 896,409 shares, or 17.63 per cent. of the whole, on June 30, and 911,020 shares or 17.92 per cent. of the total, a year ago.

New York State investors held a total of 1,245,080 shares, equal to 24.49 per cent. of the common issue, comparing with 1,296,804 shares, or 25.51 per cent., on June 30, and 1,302,817 shares, or 20.43 per cent. at the end of September last year.

Foreign holdings of Steel common totaled 201,697 shares, equal to 3.97 per cent. of the entire issue, against 203,059 shares, or 3.99 per cent., on June 30, and 210,799 shares, or 4.5 per cent. on September 29, 1923.

Iron and Steel

Production of steel ingots in September was about 2,814,996 tons, as reported by American Iron & Steel Institute. This is 62.4 per cent. of capacity, commonly estimated at 54,000,000 tons a year, while it is 11 per cent. over the August rate and 51 per cent. over July, the lowest since December, 1921.

COTTON CONSUMPTION IN SEPTEMBER LARGER

Cotton consumed during September amounted to 435,216 bales of lint and 49,976 of linters, compared with 357,455 of lint and 44,296 of linters during August this year, and 485,665 of lint and 50,652 of linters during September last year, the Census Bureau announces.

New York Curb

New York Curb was steady: International Petroleum 18⅝, up ⅛; Mutual Oil v. t., 10¾; Salt Creek Producers, 25¾; Standard Oil Kentucky 114⅛, off ⅜; Gillette Safety Razor (new), 56½; Standard Oil Indiana, 55⅛.

Liberty Bond Prices

Liberty bond prices (fractions in 32ds) were: 3½s, 100.28; first 4s, 102.6 bid; second 4s, 101.10 bid; first 4¼s, 102.10; second 4¼s, 101.13; third 4¼s, 102.2; fourth 4¼s, 102.10; treasury 4¼s, 106.4.

Bituminous Output

Production of bituminous coal in August totaled 34,765,000 net tons, against 48,864,000 last August. Anthracite output was 7,086,000 net tons, against [illegible] in August, 1923.

FLOOD OF CIRCULARS HITS FORD OWNERS

Ford owners in New England have been hit by a veritable flood of circulars soliciting their purchase of "American Units" in Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd. When the plan first got under way, the Boston American printed a statement from the Ford Motor Company of Canada disclaiming connection with the "American Units" plan.

A letter from the Ford Motor Company of Canada reads: "At no time do we recommend trading in the shares for the reason that the price quoted is proportionately in excess of the market value of full shares, and in addition, as this company does not issue its stock in any denominations less than one full share, there is no provision for representation of these fractional shares in any general shareholders' meeting of this company."

FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

The public are getting very tired of dishonesty, especially dishonesty in high places. I rather think a storm is brewing and that it may burst with drastic consequences unless energetic reforms and swift punishment be applied.

Think of it! It is figured that the swindling by fake stock promoters, dishonest bankrupts, bandits and other criminals has taken from the people during the last year the staggering sum of 3½ billions of dollars!

Is it astonishing that the public's indignation is rising to the explosion point?

The heaviest losses of all doubtless are caused by the foisting of worthless securities upon the public. Such losses greatly exceed the losses caused by counterfeiters, although their activities appear to be on the increase.

A new brand of "counterfeiting" has now come to light. Three men have been arrested in connection with the issuance of fake bonds, bonds which were palmed off as obligations of the Steel & Tube Company of America. This latest episode is peculiarly disturbing since it opens up such vast possibilities for hoodwinking unsuspecting investors.

All of which prompts the following:

What guarantee do buyers of commercial paper have that the paper they buy is genuine and has not been issued by some executive or other employe without proper authority and sold for the purpose of stealing the proceeds?

The value of the commercial paper issued in this country compares with the value of new stock and bond issues. Banks and others invest hundreds of millions of dollars, even billions, in these pieces of paper without even taking the trouble to call up the firm or company signing the paper to make certain that the paper is genuine.

Think of the possibilities for swindling this loose, unbusinesslike system—or lack of system—opens us.

America's whole method of handling commercial paper is unsatisfactory and should be reformed.

Most of the time the buyer of a piece of commercial paper not only does not know for certain that the paper is genuine, but he doesn't know how many other pieces of paper the issuing company has put out. It may be recalled that the buyers of commercial paper regarded Claflin paper as absolutely topnotch. Yet the buyers of it hadn't the slightest idea of how many millions of paper Claflin had outstanding at any time. They bought it on blind faith. Then one day the terrific crash came.

A bank president recently told me that he used to have the same regard for a certain packer's paper as other bankers had. But he did some real delving into what was what and concluded that it would be the part of safety to have nothing more to do with this particular investment. Subsequent events thoroughly justified his action.

The need for a better system for handling commercial paper being admitted, what remedy can be applied?

WHY NOT HAVE EVERY PIECE OF COMMERCIAL PAPER REGISTERED BY THE FEDERAL RESERVE BANKS?

Would not this accomplish much?

Buyers would know that the paper had been issued in due form by the firm or company issuing it—the Federal Reserve Bank would see to that.

Then, scarcely less important, banks and others would be able to ascertain at a minimum of time and trouble just how much paper any concern had outstanding. Had some such simple plan been in force the Claflin failure never would have reached the dimensions it did.

Because it is to the Federal Reserve Banks that banks holding commercial paper take their paper for rediscount. It is in the interest of the Federal Reserve Banks themselves [illegible] they should know exactly how much commercial paper is afloat and how much is being issued by each concern. Such information would be extremely useful at certain times.

The Federal Reserve Banks are in a position to organize the necessary machinery, for we are beginning to see that, in normal times, our Federal Reserve Banks are not being overworked, to say the least.

* * *

The American people have been too easy-going in the matter of dishonesty. But they are becoming less [illegible]. Those in a position to institute measures calculated to diminish dishonesty should bestir themselves forthwith.

Mr. Davis Should Stop Urging League of Nations

In the closing days of the last Presidential campaign, in 1920, after millions of words had been uttered and whole libraries written for and against the League of Nations, Candidate Harding summed up the paramount issue of that campaign in a single sentence:

> "Mr. Cox thinks we should go into the League of Nations, I think we should stay out."

Upon that issue thus succinctly stated, throughout the country Mr. Harding received 16,138,914 votes and Mr. Cox received 9,142,438 votes.

John W. Davis, the Democratic candidate this year, is not profiting by experience. The Democratic National Convention, by a vote of more than two to one, after a long debate, rejected the platform plank advocating the entrance of the United States into the League of Nations. The party was then definitely pledged to submit that question to a referendum of all the people in a special election before any official steps were taken to join the League.

We believe that Mr. Davis is an honorable man. In his speech of acceptance and several times since he has unequivocally pledged himself to abide by the policy of his party, adopted by an overwhelming vote in national convention.

But he continues to ARGUE that the United States should [illegible] to the League. In so doing he gravely injures his can[illegible] less excuse than Mr. Cox because Mr. Cox did not kn[illegible] people were against the League. Mr. Davis does [illegible] ought to know it. Therefore, in reiterating his priv[illegible]s the former American Ambassador to England and [illegible] of the English-Speaking Union, he diminishes the [illegible] that his unanimous nomination by the Democratic National Convention and his own character and ability should assure him.

Mr. Davis has made a million votes for President Coolidge and Senator La Follette by his frank advocacy of our participation in the League of Nations.

Contrast the utterances of Mr. Davis and President Coolidge with regard to the meeting which the League has just held at Geneva.

This meeting was called nominally to discuss disarmament, but really to prepare a "protocol" providing a Defensive Military Alliance for all the members of the League. The "protocol" likewise aims at compulsory arbitration and asserts the right of the League to "consider" even questions at present recognized as a nation's own affair—such as its immigration policy.

The "protocol" even asserts the jurisdiction of the League over a dispute between a League member and an outsider—for example, a dispute between Japan and the United States over our immigration policy.

Another meeting of the League is called for next June to effect universal adoption of this "protocol."

President Coolidge was invited to have America represented at this last Geneva meeting. He refused. He will obviously refuse to send anyone over in June if he is reelected. Judging from his address to the war veterans in Philadelphia ten days ago, he believes in our minding our own business. He said:

> "If there is anything which is dear to Americans, which they are bound to preserve at all hazards, it is their independence. I mean by that the privilege of reserving to themselves the choice of their own course and the decision of their own actions. We do not propose to entrust to any other power, or combination of powers, any authority to make up our own mind for us."

Two days later John W. Davis severely criticized President Coolidge's aloof policy. Speaking at Albany Mr. Davis said:

> "Had I been President of the United States I would not only have accepted the invitation to attend the present conference, but I should have insisted upon the right of the United States to be present and take a leading part when matters so vital to ourselves were being dealt with. If I become President I shall favor sending a representative to attend the disarmament conference next June."

To judge from Mr. Davis' utterances, he will, if elected President, get us into the work of the League, in defiance of the promise of his party platform.

Dr. Butterfield Supports Child Labor Amendment

The following letter was sent to Owen R. Lovejoy, No. 215 Fourth avenue, New York city, on October 3, 1924, by Kenyon L. Butterfield, former president of Massachusetts State Agricultural College. It was dated Michigan Agricultural College, East Lansing, Mich., of which he is president:

> "My Dear Mr. Lovejoy—I hope sincerely that the Child Labor Amendment will pass. I see no other way to get justice for the American child and youth, and I am certain that the prophecies of evil concerning the laws likely to be passed under the proposed amendment will never be fulfilled. If we cannot trust Congress to proper legislation under such amendments, we cannot trust Congress at all.
> "Very sincerely yours,
> (Signed) "KENYON L. BUTTERFIELD."

President Warren S. Stone, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers' Union, in writing to Miss Caroline E. Wilson, secretary of the special committee of the Massachusetts Child Labor Committee for ratification of the Child Labor Amendment, said:

> "My Dear Miss Wilson—On my return to the office I find your message of October 3. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers has repeatedly gone on record in favor of the ratification of the Federal Child Labor Amendment and has been on record through all the years of the fight trying to get necessary child labor laws in the different States and with the Federal government. You can count on us doing everything humanly possible to assist you in the work you are doing in having this needed amendment become a law.
> "Yours very truly,
>
> "W. S. STONE, President."

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

ALAS, Summer never lasts long enough for a man to learn how to sit down without wrecking his white trousers.

* * *

This is the time of year when the sand-sheik stops burbling about being "elemental and primitive" and all that sort of thing, and begins talking about "giving you up" and getting back to hard work.

Helen Rowland

Nothing looks quite so GOOD to a man as his wife, after he has been snubbed fooled, or laughed at by another woman.

Nowadays, a "devoted couple" means merely a couple who don't get on each other's nerves: a man devoted to golf, and a woman devoted to bridge.

It takes a strong man, very much in love, to write half as many letters as a weak woman who is just a little bit in love.

Apparently the modern man feels about choosing a wife as he does about choosing a car or an overcoat: why select the solid, substantial kind to last a lifetime, when he may want a different model next year?

Love is, to the philosopher, a folly; to the psychologist, a formula; to the fanatic, a danger; to the flirt, a game; and to the lover, the simplest, most natural and most necessary thing in the world.

According to the bachelor, the path of true love never runs smooth; but the scenery is lovely and fascinating, so long as you can avoid skidding into matrimony.

It's all right for a man to go in for golf, but why does he have to go in for it all over the house, the front piazza and his wife's geraniums and tender feelings?

* * *

A man's love-making, in these days, is not personal, but just the involuntary outpouring of an overcrowded heart.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

THERE are plenty of lessons in life's busy school, tasks to fill up our time all the way, and with many a precept and many a rule we keep learning to work and to play. Through the whole of our years we can catch but a gleam of the wisdom that's ready at hand; but we learn how to toil and we learn how to dream, toil and dreams that have brightened the land. But through trouble and trial (and both come to all) the one man who finds learning a staff, the one man who still conquers, whatever befall, is the man who has learned how to laugh! Oh, he may not be wise in the way of the schools, and he may not know Latin or Greek or astronomy's wonders or science's rules, all the things cultured people would seek. Other learning as well he may miss as he goes, like philosophy, music and art; but his road's filled with friends and he finds but few foes if he learns how to laugh at the start; if he learns how to laugh at each pleasure he meets, how to laugh at the spectres of pain, how to laugh at his triumphs and laugh at defeats, how to laugh after losses and gain. So, as none can learn all life would teach as he goes, let each one sift the grain from the chaff; for the world brims with beauty, hope blooms like the rose for the man who has learned how to laugh!

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

It is easier to control a hundred thousand men in battle than to subjugate the mind of one thoroughly convinced individual.

All argument will vanish before one touch of nature.

Speech was given to the ordinary sort of man, whereby to communicate his mind, but to a wise man, whereby to conceal it.

WHY MEN ARE THE BETTER COOKS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THERE seems to be little doubt that men are better cooks than women, and the question arises why this is so.

Many answers have been given. One is that man cooks because he likes it and woman only likes it as a means to an end.

Another is that he sacrifices nothing on the altar of economy, whereas economy is the stumbling block of a woman.

Again, man is said by nature to be an epicure. This gives him an instinct for subtly blending flavors to tempt the palate.

It is said that women accept cooking as an everyday duty, but men look upon it as a profession.

Man is more exact; whereas woman dislikes accuracy and works by rule of thumb.

It is said that man is more original and inventive, while woman merely imitates.

Again it is said that cooking needs good health and men can stand, and walk about and endure heat for long hours better than women.

One writer says that men have tradition behind them and a recognized status; their remuneration is good; they are allowed to concentrate; they have an unstinted larder and their extravagances are overlooked.

One woman says that women are expected to produce a rich menu on a limited allowance, also to mind the baby, clean the house and answer the door bell while they are cooking.

The best explanation is that men, when they cook, give their entire attention to the matter, while women are busy also with something else.

VEGA SUGGESTED AS MASTER STAR

By Garrett P. Serviss,

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Sientific Topics of Popular Interest.

"Is Vega the ruling star toward which our sun and its planets are advancing? If we travel in a great orbit around it, could astronomers compute the dimensions of that orbit, and the duration of time required to make the trip? As the whole creation is boundless, could it not be possible that our sidereal universe is moving around a still greater one existing somewhere, billions of miles away?—L. K."

VEGA, the bright star in the constellation Lyra, is not a "ruling" star for our sun; it simply happens to lie very nearly in the direction in which the sun, with its planets, is traveling, at the present time. I say "at the present time," because we do not know that the sun's path in space is a straight line.

Undiscovered

Besides, the exact direction of the sun's movements has not been discovered. Various points in the sky are indicated by different observers as the "apex" of the solar motion, i. e., the point toward which the sun is carrying the solar system. These points are many degrees apart, but they are all situated in the northern part of the sky, and the one which seems to be the most probable lies only a few degrees from Vega.

But these few degrees—say four or five—would correspond to a very great distance when the sun had arrived, with its planets, at the point of nearest approach to Vega. Say that they were then four degrees apart as seen from our present position in space. Since the distance of Vega is now probably at least 200,000,000,000,000 miles, the four degrees would represent a gap of about 14,000,000,000,000 miles between Vega and the sun, when the latter passed nearest to the star.

That would be something over half the distance between the sun and the star Alpha Centauri, which is known as the nearest to us, at present, of all the stars in the sky. But Vega is in absolute magnitude a far larger star than Alpha Centauri, so that it would shine in the heavens, when the sun had carried us twice as near to it as we now are to Alpha Centauri, with exceeding splendor, greatly surpassing that of Sirius, or any other star.

The absolute luminosity of Vega is probably not less than one hundred times as great as the sun's. If we assume its mass to be proportionally large, its attraction upon the sun would be some 200 times greater than that now exercised by Alpha Centauri (ascribing to the latter twice the sun's mass); but even then, while it might perceptibly alter the direction of the sun's motion, it would, by means, become the sun's ruler or master.

Considering the way in which the stars are distributed in space, it would not be possible for the sun to describe "an orbit around Vega." There are too many conflicting attractions in play. Not only the sun, but all of the other stars, including, of course, Vega itself, are in motion; and the speed of the sun—about twelve miles per second—is slow in comparison with that of some of the others.

Instead of thinking of them as traveling in orbits, of a nature similar to that of the planetary orbits, we should rather picture the stars, in the imagination, as resembling the atoms of a rare gas moving about among one another by virtue of forces other than those of their mutual attractions.

Yet, no doubt, the stellar system as a whole is governed by the laws of gravitation. There are indications of systematic motions, like currents or eddies. Widely scattered groups of stars possess a common motion, traveling through space on parallel lines.

Discordant Motions

The celebrated and most beautiful cluster, called the Pleiades, appear to be associated in this manner. But, on the other hand, discordant motions prevail among many of the stars forming the groups which we know as "constellations."

Some of these, like the "Great Dipper," are "falling apart" in consequence of the divergent motions of the stars composing them. But while the actual motions of the stars are rapid—sometimes more than a hundred miles per second—yet they are so far away from us that in the course of a human lifetime no star changes its place in the sky sufficiently to be remarked except by the aid of delicate instrumental measurements.

The idea that the stellar system visible to us is not the only one in existence is entertained by many astronomers, but this is a subject that I have not room to discuss here.

ONCE-OVERS

KNOW WHEN TO REFUSE AND HAVE COURAGE TO DO IT!

Why promise so much that you cannot fulfill?

What is gained by promises to do certain things which you never find time to do and which might better be turned down at the start?

You think that it makes very little difference that you do not keep your engagements or your promises.

But every time you promise a certain thing you should remember that others make their plans accordingly and when you break your word it means a change of plan for others besides yourself. To some this is often a positive inconvenience, not to say embarrassment.

You would better admit that it is a weakness—this promising what you cannot or do not intend to carry out.

It is too hard for you to say, "No."

You cannot bear to hear a protest when you refuse to comply and so you give an irresponsible consent and fall in greater disfavor than if you had refused.

For a protest is forgotten both by the one who makes and the one who receives it. It is not an active but a passive thing in comparison to the sort of feeling you will set up against you if you do not curb your impulse to promise what you cannot or do not intend to fulfill.
